MANDAN, FARGO TEAMS CLASH IN H. S. FINAL

Will Battle for High School
Basketball Championship
of The State

Mandan Supporters Hopeful

The Scores
Mandan 21; Dickinson 17.
Donnybrook 21; Grand Forks

Fargo 38; Maddock 26.
Williston 26; Jamestown 19.
Fargo 26; Williston 14.
Mandan 20; Donnybrook 17.
Finals—Mandan vs. Fargo,
tonight 8 p. m.

Fargo, Mar. 17.—Western North Dakota will meet the east here tonight in what is expected to be the greatest high school basketball game in the history of the state, when Mandan high school conqueror of Dickinson and Donny-brook in the state tournament now being played, will mix with the present state champions—Fargo high school.

The latter successfully defeated Maddock and Williston in this year's meet.

Fargo's entry into the finals was no surprise as their standard of play this season has been of high caliber.

Mandan, playing eccentric basketball, was a different story, and succeeded only in making the grade in the finals after coming out from behind in the second half of the semi-finals contest with Donnybrook by coming back into the consistent play that marked her earlier games and defeating that team by a 20 to 17 score.

The Fargo champions annexed the long end of a 26 to 14 score in the game with Williston this morning.

The winner led all the way through the contest.

Tonight's championship match will be played at 8 o'clock on the floor of the armory of the state agricultural college.

Supporters Nervous

Mandan supporters were nervous this afternoon, however, because they said the brand of basketball played by Mandan thus far has been far below her usual standard. In the Donnybrook game, for example, the score was 12 to 6 in Donnybrook's favor at the end of the first half, and Donnybrook led until the last five minutes of play, when Mandan spurted and overcame the lead, taking the morning game by a narrow margin of three points.

The Mandan supporters believe their team will meet Fargo in heating Maddock last night 38 to 26.

Dickinson Eliminated

Mandan won her first game with Dickinson, but not without scraping all the way. The final score was 24 to 17. The Dickinson team fought hard and showed the best basketball it has shown this year, in the opinion of many. The first half ended, 13 to 9, with Mandan on the long end.

Donnybrook, from Renville county, took pleasure in romping over Grand Forks in the yesterday afternoon game. The score was 21 to 19. The Grand Forks team led 12 to 7 at the end of the first half.

Star May Be Out

Hal Owens, star Fargo guard, may not be able to play in the finals tonight. He sustained a cut over his right eye in the game with Williston this morning. The cut may interfere with his participation in the championship game.

In the Williston-Fargo contest today, Fargo's Miller to Rusch combination was well-nigh unbeatable. Rusch at the basket shot five field goals and six out of nine tries after fouls.

Capt. Scott of Williston played a star game, his aggregation, scoring four field goals.

The hope was upset in the tournament when Williston beat Jamestown, 23 to 19, this, being the biggest upset during the tournament.

CAME FROM BEHIND

Fargo, N. D., Mar. 17.—After displaying a ragged game of basketball in the first half of the opener in the semi-finals of the state basketball tournament here, this morning, in which their opponents lead at the end with a score of 12 to 6, Mandan high school took a decisive brace in the early part of the second half and in a scrappy exhibition of good basket shooting and team work overcame the 2 to 1 lead, noosing out at the end of the second half with the score of 20 to 17. Newgaard, Mandan, was the individual star of the game, shooting four field goals.

Burdick of Mandan was tied with Bowman of Donnybrook with three each.

The game was marked by determination of both teams to enter the finals. Donnybrook put up a magnificent though losing fight.

IRELAND TODAY W. T. Cosgrave President of the Irish Free State

By W. T. Cosgrave
President of the Irish Free State
To the Editor of The Bismarck Tribune:

Ireland has come through a revolution. For some centuries this country was ruled from Dublin Castle. Even the independence claimed for "Grattan's Parliament" (1782-1801) was illusory.

Probably no country in the world ever made in such a brief space so much material progress as Ireland made during the few years of legislative freedom. But the control of executive, judiciary, and military power remained all the time with Dublin Castle, and Dublin Castle did not wait but continued the opportunity to destroy Ireland's legislative freedom and concomitant prosperity.

From the time when the discovery of America gave Ireland a place of cardinal importance in the midst of the world until about a year ago,
Ireland was dominated by Dublin Castle, and this domination developed in time to such a degree that in the words of a recent English chief secretary, the whole people of Ireland lived under the Dublin Castle microscope.

Dublin Castle was an unorganized bureaucracy, responsible only to the British government, contemptuous of the Irish people and their representatives, over whom it appointed its own judges and magistrates, its own taxgatherers and police,
its own secret service agents.

It was supported by the British army and navy and had its own arm of power and intelligence, the Royal Irish Constabulary, organized on a military footing and equipped with military arms, the most centralized and efficient police that the world has known. Its power can compare with that of any despotism in history.

Within less than three generations, it was able without challenge to exterminate half of the population of Ireland and to stifle most of the people's industries, draining from them in the meantime a tributute that mounted up, in Lord Mac-donnell's words, to "an empire's ransom."

The Irish revolution, led by Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins, has ended that. Dublin Castle is no more. Its entire organization has disappeared. The survivors of its great police organization are retired pensioners.

In its stead rules a government elected by the people of Ireland, un-

PRESIDENT COSGRAVE

der a constitution of which the fundamental principle is that "All powers of government and all authority, legislative, executive, and judicial,
in Ireland are derived from the people of Ireland."

No great revolution was not to be achieved without heavy cost.

Among all the wrongs and evils inflicted on Ireland by Dublin Castle, not the least was this, that the people were forced, generation after generation, to resist the only law and government that existed, until testament and negation became their chief political tradition.

Then came the great war, with its disorganizing effects on the public mind throughout the world. Close upon its traces came the first and terribly intense stages of the Irish revolutionary struggle, which became definitely knit when the representatives of the people, at the beginning of 1919, established a government of their own and openly rejected the Castle bureaucracy and all its authority.

The sum of the sacrifices, the enthusiasm and evaluation of that struggle set up an abnormal state of mind among a certain proportion especially of the younger folk, whose experience of life meant little to them before the war era of 1911 began.

There is also a graver defect in the new Irish situation than any manifestations, however distressing they may appear, of political passion.

The British policy of the past has established a separate government in Belfast, subordinate to the British government and parliament, and ruling over an arbitrarily defined area of six counties.

To the Irish people this arrangement stands for continuous irritation and instability, and they look forward to the day when, with full and cordial agreement, Ireland will have a political unity answering to her geographic economic unity.

Notwithstanding the febrile effects of the two fanaticisms, the Irish revolution is an accomplished fact. The new constitution is operative and the changes that follow from it are being steadily and permanently effected.

A new electoral law, in accordance with the constitution, will secure that future elections will be held under the conjoint principles of universal adult suffrage and the proportional representation of minor-ties.

The judicial system is undergoing a complete reform, readjusting it to the requirements of the Irish people.

A new and purely civil police organization has replaced the Royal Irish Constabulary.

A new revenue department will collect the taxes of the Free State.
A new army organization will be the instrument of the national will expressed through the elected representatives of the nation, for the defense of the nation and its institutions.

The far-reaching power of education, the molding of the national mind, is now completely in the people's hands.

In Great Britain there still remains an element, difficult to measure, finding voice in certain sections of the press, hostile to the freedom which Ireland won, and eager to undo it.

But the main fact of the situation is that the elected representatives of the nation in both houses of the Oireachtas, the Irish parliament, are practically as one in their determination to maintain that freedom and develop it for every advantage of Ireland, political, economic, and cultural.

We have no mind to boast or to prophesy. It is enough to say that we face the future with confidence in the firm purpose of carrying forward to its consummation the policy bequeathed to us by the wisdom, courage and patriotism of Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins.

W. T. COSGRAVE,
President, the Irish Free State,
DUBLIN, March 17, 1923.

ROADS BODY TO GO TO MAT ON ITS PROGRAM

Primaries, 1924, Meeting
Here, Decides

OFFICERS ARE CHOSEN

President Says Association
Will Go Into Politics in
The Future

The North Dakota Good Roads association will begin a campaign of expansion and initiation into law through vote at the June, 1924, primaries of the legislative program which failed in the recent legislative session, it was decided at the annual meeting of the organization held here yesterday afternoon.

Good roads meetings will be held throughout the state as a part of the plan of operation. The association also will go into politics, President J. J. Mac declared, and legislative candidates will be questioned as to their stand upon highways legislation.

President—J. J. Mac, Valley City, re-elected.

First vice president—P. O. Thor-son, Grand Forks.

Second vice president—C. E. Danielson, Minot.

Treasurer—J. L. Bell, Bismarck.

Member at large of executive committee—Peter Berringer, Dickinson.
Chairman legislative committee, A. T. Kramel, Clifford.

The meeting, which was attended by about 30 members from all parts of the state, adopted a resolution as follows:

"Whereas, the program of the association as represented by senators Nos. 44, 45 and 46 presents a road building program and maintenance plan necessary to the development of the resources of the state and to the happiness and prosperity of its people and

"Whereas, the foregoing measures are necessary for the continuance of federal aid for state highway improvement.

"Now, therefore, be it resolved that the members in attendance at the third annual meeting do hereby reaffirm their faith and belief in such program, and

"Be it further resolved that the sense of this meeting that these measures be initiated at the June primaries, 1924.

Resolutions of appreciation for work done by ardent good roads workers and a resolution urging all members inform themselves as to the merit of proposed legislation also were passed.

Secretary Kauffuss reported to the meeting he had received about 25 letters regarding the citizens' initiative to be presented. All but one of this number, he said, urged the pro-

The association, it was decided,
will seek to increase its membership,
which is said to be now about 3,500,
by placing a corps of traveling representatives in the field and the holding of meetings in the large cities under the auspices of local members.

CHILLY BLAST DESCENDS ON DAKOTA TODAY

Storm Riding Out of Canada
Brings Mercury Down
To 8 Below

After enjoying mild weather and reading of storm reports several hundred miles south and east of here, high pressure areas got a new taste of winter this morning.

After rising to 40 above zero yesterday, the mercury began to sink during the night under a chilling north wind, and at 8 o'clock this morning it was 8 below zero. The thermometer continued to fall to 10 below.

Bismarck was not alone in the Northwest in sub-zero temperatures. It was 6 below at Calgary last night, 10 below at Edmonton 24 below at Prince Albert, 4 below at S. S. Marie, 14 below at Swift Current, 8 below at Williston, 22 below at Winnipeg and "zero" at Moorhead, Minn. The wind reached a velocity of 35 miles an hour.

The weather bureau reported an extensive high pressure area centered over Saskatchewan, that is causing cold weather in North Dakota westward and northward. The forecast is cold tonight, but not so cold Sunday.

DELUGED BY REPORTS.

Washington, Mar. 17.—While the general public turned with a sigh of relief to pleasant things, revenue collectors throughout the country still were deeply emerged today in the annual deluge of income tax mathematics and officials here predicted it would be several days before reliable figures were available upon the total that had

Considering Forwarding Protest Against Hildreth
Statement to Washington

PRESENTED IN COURT

Jurors Ask Retraction Based on Interview Regarding Jurors and Oaths

Twenty-seven jurors in federal court here, after protesting in open court against remarks of United States District Attorney
J. A. Hildreth alleged to be debasing the jurors, were debating today whether or not they would forward a formal protest to the Department of Justice at Washington, D. C.

The jurors presented before Judge Miller a demand that the district attorney either retract the statements made by him or furnish proof of the allegation.

No action was taken in the court.
The action of the jurors was impelled from an interview published in the Bismarck Tribune in which District Attorney Hildreth

was quoted as stating that "perjury is the most prevalent crime in the United States today" and that there is "general disrespect of the oath among jurors as well as witnesses and that 'the truth of the matter is that jurors are impelled from an interview published
in the Bismarck Tribune in
which District Attorney Hildreth

was quoted as saying that perjury cases would constitute an important part of the next grand jury's investigation.

The protest of the jurors, who believe the remarks derogatory to them because in the two criminal cases tried in the federal court, verdicts of acquittal were rendered, was not taken in the court.

Resolution Read

D. E. Shipley of Dickinson read the resolution of the jurors, which incorporated the article referred to, before Judge Miller.

Assistant District Attorney S. L. Nichols objected to the portion which asked that the resolution be made a part of the court records.
District Attorney Hildreth was present in court and said nothing.

Judge Miller received the resolution, discussed the matter, stated that he did not believe the District Attorney intended to cast reflection upon the jurors at this time of court, said with respect to the two cases in which the jurors returned verdicts of acquittal he believed the jurors found correctly and said the jurors had given good service in the court.

The resolution, which traveled from Mr. Shipley to the clerk and to the judge returned by the same route, and the court ordered business to proceed.

After quoting the article the resolution said:

"From the reading of the article, it appears to the jurors that this is a reflection on the honesty and integrity of the members. It is hard for the jurors to take two or three weeks of their time from their business; they are, however, conscious of their duty as jurors;
they have been trying to be faithful to their duty and faithful according to the best of their ability, to the oath they have taken as

Trapper Reported Dead in Battle With Timber Wolves

Saskatoon, Can., March 17.—Carl Lynn, one of the best known trappers in the North Country, is believed to have lost his life in a battle with a pack of timber wolves, two hunters reported today. They said they thought his body was devoured by the pack after he had killed six of the beasts. Strips of clothing and a gun identified as belonging to Lynn were found by carcasses of six wolves were found by the hunters near Clear Lake, 200 miles north of Saskatoon, but a trace of the hunter's body was lacking.

IMPRINT OF AUTO TIRES FIGURES IN CASE; FIRST WOMAN JUROR SITS

Deductions like those made in detective stories comprise part of the state's reliance in its effort to convince 11 men jurors and one woman juror—the first in the history of Burleigh county—of the guilt of Henry Weins, charged with burning the threshing separator of a neighbor. The case is on trial in the district court.

The state claims Weins drove in his automobile to the field where the separator was standing and set fire to it about last September 20.
His automobile, they claim, had four tires, each of different make.
Imprints of tires were made near the separator and on the road.
Through these imprints, the state claims, it can identify the brand

SEN. T. C. POWER DIES IN HELENA "AT AGE OF 84"

Former Senator T. C. Power died yesterday afternoon at Helena, Montana at the age of 84 years after an illness extending over several months. Senator Power was considered one of the leading figures in the business and political life of the state having been its first U. S. Senator with the granting of statehood in 1891 and was one of the most prominent Republicans in Montana for many years. His business interests were very extensive throughout the state although for the past several years he had relinquished the active management of many of them to his son Charles B. Power of Helena, who survives him. He has been interested in several North Dakota corporations for many years. Senator Power first passed through what is now Bismarck with General Sully's expedition in 1864. Mrs. Power died about three years ago.

GERMANS GIVE U. S. STAND ON REPARATIONS

POINCARÉ STILL FIRM

Germany Must Make Definite Statement of Desire to Negotiate, He Says

10 SOLDIERS KILLED

Berlin, Mar. 17.—A report from Berlin, Mar. 17, says that 10 soldiers were killed and many injured when a French train collided with a freight train. The impact was so violent that several coaches were telescoped.

Washington, Mar. 17.—State department officials have received a statement of Germany's position regarding reparations but they declared that the information as delivered yesterday by Dr. Hans Heinrich Dicksch, counselor of the German embassy, called for no action by the Washington government looking to mediation or intervention by it in the reparations dispute between France and Germany.

The information presented by Dr. Dicksch was characterized as a statement of Germany's position without any request for action by the United States. Officials said they would make no reply, nor would they call it to the attention of the French government.

WON'T MAKE OVERTURES

Paris, Mar. 17.—Premier Poincaré will entertain no propositions for negotiations with Germany until the Berlin government makes it known directly and officially that she wants to negotiate, it was declared today in French official circles.

TWO GERMANS SHOT

Duesseldorf, Mar. 17.—Two Germans were shot and killed by French sentinels, during the night, one Becklinghausen and one at Essen.

Three Germans who were arrested were said by the French to have been caught cutting telephone and telegraph wires which they declared they were doing under orders from employers who had instructed them to commit systematic sabotage. Their chief when taken to Duesseldorf is declared by authorities to be merely a repeating out instructions from Berlin.

DENY RUMORS

Berlin, Mar. 17.—The rumor that Germany has offered forty billion gold marks or any other big sum or has submitted reparations proposals through an intermediate channel was flatly denied through the German foreign office today.

REPUBLICANS' THREAT MAKES PEOPLE UNEASY

Siki-McTigue Boxing Match Feared as Spark Which May Fan the Flames

CENSORSHIP IS PUT ON

Travelers From Dublin De-
clare Situation Is Tense;
People Fearing Battle

London, Mar. 17.—The reason for the rigid censorship imposed in Dublin yesterday preventing the use of telegraph lines and telephones except for brief messages approved by the authorities is not known here.
The London morning newspapers have scarcely any direct news from Dublin. Even the sporting columns contain no late specials on this evening's Siki-McTigue fight except what reached Belfast through travelers.

The Daily Sketch, aside from a story from its London correspondent describing the extraordinary conditions under which the bout will take place, prints a short telegram under the Dublin date line which asserts the city is in "tenderhooks," wondering what Saturday will bring forth.

The government, the dispatch says, is providing armed guards for the Kells theater where the fight will be held and every other place of amusement in order to make sure that the Republican proclamation against opening of such houses shall not be made effective.

Streets Crowded

Telegrams from Belfast quote "arrivals from Dublin" as saying that the situation is usually tense. The streets were crowded yesterday with troops who, revolvers in hand, kept an incessant vigil, stopping and examining pedestrians. There were no disturbances.

The Morning Post says that the situation is crystallizing in a remarkable way around the big bout, the Republicans declare that it must not take place, threatening the boxers with death if they appear in the ring.

The government on the other hand has accepted the defiance challenge of the Republicans and is determined to allow the fight as well as other entertainments to take place.

People At Loss

The public is represented as being at a loss as to what to do. People naturally are not inclined to be caught in a possible conflict between rival forces, for, nevertheless all the same, have been sold out it is hardly probable that most of the ticket holders will be willing to lose both money and sight of boxers.

Other reports from Belfast are along similar lines saying that if the fight is held—and promoters are determined it shall be held—the ring will be surrounded by troops armed with bayonets and revolvers.

It is impossible to say whether the reports are conditionally colored. It is expected that the censorship will be raised today and that direct news from Dublin will be forthcoming.

HELD GUILTY OF MURDER

Casopolis, Mich., Mar. 17.—Mrs.
Maude Cushing Storie was convicted of killing her first husband, Claude Cushing, by a jury in circuit court here today and immediately was sentenced to life imprisonment by Judge L. Burget Desnoires. The jury had deliberated since yesterday afternoon. The state charged the woman with causing Cushing's death by poison.

CLASH OF FORCES IS FEARED IN DUBLIN

Basketball Championship
of The State

ALL OTHERS ELIMINATED

Fargo Disposes of Maddock and Williston Handily;
Mandan Supporters Hopeful

The Scores
Mandan 21; Dickinson 17.
Donnybrook 21; Grand Forks 19.
Fargo 28; Maddock 26.
Williston 28; Jamestown 19.
Fargo 26; Williston 14.
Mandan 20; Donnybrook 17.
Finals—Mandan vs. Fargo,
tonight 8 p. m.

Fargo, Mar. 17.—Western North Dakota will meet the east here tonight in what is expected to be the greatest high school basketball game in the history of the state, when Mandan high school conqueror of Dickinson and Donnybrook in the state tournament now being played, will mix with the present state champions—Fargo high school.

The latter successfully defeated Maddock and Williston in this year's meet.

Fargo's entry into the finals was no surprise as their standard of play this season has been of high caliber.

Mandan, playing eccentric basketball, was a different story, and succeeded only in making the grade in the finals after coming out from behind in the second half of the semi-finals contest with Donnybrook by coming back into the consistent play that marked her earlier games and defeating that team by a 20 to 17 score.

The Fargo champions annexed the long end of a 26 to 14 score in the game with Williston this morning.

The winner led all the way through the contest, and tonight's championship match will be played at 8 o'clock on the floor of the armory of the state agricultural college.

Supporters Nervous
Mandan supporters were nervous this afternoon, however, because they said the brand of basketball played by Mandan thus far has been far below her usual standard.

In the Donnybrook game, for example, the score was 12 to 6 in Donnybrook's favor at the end of the first half and Donnybrook led until the last five minutes of play, when Mandan surprised and overcame the lead, taking the morning game by a narrow margin of three points.

The Mandan supporters believe their team will meet Fargo if it plays in top form.

Fargo showed good form in beating Maddock last night 38 to 26.

Dickinson Eliminated
Mandan won her first game with Dickinson, but not without scrapping all the way. The final score was 24 to 17. The Dickinson team fought hard and showed the best basketball it has shown this year, in the opinion of many. The first half ended, 12 to 9, with Mandan on the long end.

Donnybrook, from Renville county, took pleasure in romping over Grand Forks in the yesterday afternoon game. The score was 21 to 19. The Grand Forks team led 12 to 7 at the end of the first half.

Star May Be Out
Hal Owens, star Fargo guard, may not be able to play in the finals tonight. He sustained a cut over his right eye in the game with Williston this morning. This may interfere with his participation in the championship game.

In the Williston-Fargo contest today, Fargo's Miller to Ruch combination was well-nigh unbeatable. Ruch at the basket shot five field goals and six out of nine tries after fouls.

Capt. Scott of Williston played a star game for his aggregation, scoring four field goals.

The dope was up in the tournament when Williston beat Jamestown, 28 to 19, this being the biggest upset during the tournament.

CAME FROM BEHIND
Fargo, N. D., Mar. 17.—After displaying a ragged game of basketball in the first half of the opener in the semi-finals of the state basketball tournament here, this morning, in which their opponents lead at the end with a score of 12 to 6, Mandan high school took a decided brace in the early part of the second half and in a scrappy exhibition of good basket shooting and team work overcame the 2 to 1 lead, noosing out at the end of the second half winner by the score of 20 to 17. Newgaard, Mandan, was the individual star of the game, shooting four field goals.

Burdick of Mandan was tied with Bowman of Donnybrook with three each.

The game was marked by determination of both teams to enter the finals, Donnybrook put up a magnificent though losing fight.

To the Editor of The Bismarck Tribune:

Ireland has come through a revolution. For some centuries this country was ruled from Dublin Castle. Even the independence claimed for "Grattan's Parliament" (1782-1801) was illusory.

Probably no country in the world ever made in such a brief space so much material progress as Ireland made during the few years of legislative freedom. But the control of executive, judiciary, and military power remained all the time with Dublin Castle, and Dublin Castle did not await but contrived the opportunity to destroy Ireland's legislative freedom and a concomitant prosperity.

From the time when the discovery of America gave Ireland a place of cardinal importance in the midst of the world until about a year ago, Ireland was dominated by Dublin Castle, and this domination developed in time to such a degree that, in the words of a recent English chief secretary, the whole people of Ireland lived under the Dublin Castle microscope.

Dublin Castle was an unorganized bureaucracy, responsible only to absentee British government, contemptuous of the Irish people and their representatives, over whom it appointed its own judges and magistrates, its own taxgatherers and police, its own secret service agents.

It was supported by the British army and navy and had its own arm of power and intelligence, the Royal Irish Constabulary, organized on a military footing and equipped with military arms, the most centralized and efficient police that the world has known. Its power can compare with that of any despotism in history.

Within less than three generations, it was able without challenge to exterminate half of the population of Ireland and to stifle most of the people's industries, draining from them in the meantime a tribute that mounted up, in Lord MacDonnell's words, to "an empire's ransom."

The Irish revolution, led by Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins, had ended that Dublin Castle is no more. Its entire organization has disappeared. The survivors of its great police organization are retired pensioners.

In its stead rises a government elected by the people of Ireland, under the name of the Irish Free State.

The British policy of the past has established a separate government in Belfast, subordinate to the British government and parliament, and ruling over an arbitrarily defined area of six counties.

To the Irish people this arrangement stands for continuous irritation and instability, and they look forward to the day when, with full and cordial agreement, Ireland will have a political unity answering to her geographic economic unity.

Notwithstanding the feeble efforts of the two fanatics, the Irish revolution is an accomplished fact. The new constitution is operative and the changes that follow from it are being steadily and permanently effected.

A new electoral law, in accordance with the constitution, will secure that future elections will be held under the joint principles of universal adult suffrage and the proportional representation of minorities.

The judicial system is undergoing a complete reform, adjusting it to the requirements of the Irish people.

A new and purely civil police organization has replaced the Royal Irish Constabulary.

A new revenue department will collect the taxes of the Free State. A new army organization will be the instrument of the national will expressed through the elected representatives of the nation, for the defense of the nation and its institutions.

The far-reaching power of education, the molding of the national mind, is now completely in the people's hands.

In Great Britain there still remains an element, difficult to measure, finding voice in certain sections of the press, hostile to the freedom of Ireland, and eager to undo it.

But the main fact of the situation is that the elected representatives of the nation in both houses of the Oireachtas, the Irish parliament, are practically as one in their determination to maintain that freedom and develop it for every advantage of Ireland, political, economic, and cultural.

We have no mind to boast or to prophesy. It is enough to say that we face the future with confidence in the firm purpose of carrying forward to its consummation a policy bequeathed to us by the wisdom, courage and patriotism of Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins.

der a constitution of which the fundamental principle is that "All powers of government and all authority, legislative, executive, and judicial, in Ireland are derived from the people of Ireland."

So great a revolution was not to be achieved without heavy cost. Among all the wrongs and evils inflicted on Ireland by Dublin Castle, not the least was this, that the people were forced, generation after generation, to resist the only law and government that existed, until resistance and negotiation became their chief political tradition.

Then came the great war, with its disturbing effects on the public mind throughout the world. Close upon its traces came the final and terribly intense stages of the Irish revolutionary struggle, which became definitely knit when the representatives of the people, at the beginning of 1919, established a government of their own and openly rejected the Castle bureaucracy and all its authority.

The strain, the sacrifices, the enthusiasm and exaltation of that struggle set up an abnormal state of mind among a certain proportion, especially of the younger folk, whose experience of life meant little to them before the war era of 1914 began.

There is also a graver defect in the new Irish situation than any manifestations, however distressing they may appear, of political paranoia.

The British policy of the past has established a separate government in Belfast, subordinate to the British government and parliament, and ruling over an arbitrarily defined area of six counties.

To the Irish people this arrangement stands for continuous irritation and instability, and they look forward to the day when, with full and cordial agreement, Ireland will have a political unity answering to her geographic economic unity.

ROADS BODY TO GO TO MAT ON ITS PROGRAM

Primaries, 1924, Meeting
Here Decides

OFFICERS ARE CHOSEN

President Says Association
Will Go Into Politics in
The Future

The North Dakota Good Roads association will begin a campaign of expansion and initiation into law through vote at the June, 1924, primaries of the legislative program which failed in the recent legislative session, it was decided at the annual meeting of the organization held here yesterday afternoon.

Good roads meetings will be held throughout the state as a part of the plan of operation. The association also will go into politics, President L. J. Moe declared, and legislative candidates will be questioned as to their stand upon highways legislation.

Officers were elected as follows: President—L. J. Moe, Valley City, re-elected.

First vice president—P. O. Thorson, Grand Forks.

Second vice president—C. E. Danielson, Minot.

Treasurer—J. L. Bell, Bismarck.

Member at large of executive committee—Peter Berringer, Dickinson.

Chairman legislative committee, A. T. Krandel, Clifford.

The meeting, which was attended by about 30 members from all parts of the state, adopted a resolution as follows:

"Whereas the program of the association as represented by senate bills Nos. 44, 45 and 46 presents a road building program and maintenance of the resources of the state and to the happiness and prosperity of its people and

"Whereas the foregoing measures are necessary for the continuance of federal aid for state highway improvement.

"Now, therefore, be it resolved that the members in attendance at the third annual meeting do hereby reaffirm their faith and belief in such program, and

"Be it further resolved that it is the sense of this meeting that these measures be initiated at the June primaries, 1924."

Resolutions of appreciation for work done by ardent good roads workers and a resolution urging all members inform themselves as to the merit of proposed legislation also were passed.

Secretary Kauffmann reported to the meeting that he had received 25 letters regretting the writers' inability to be present. All but one of this number, he said, urged the program be continued.

The association, it was decided, will seek to increase its membership, which is said to be now about 3,500, by placing a large number of representatives in the field and the holding of meetings in the large cities under the auspices of local members.

The act of the recent legislature making an appropriation for the Department of Immigration is void because the bill failed to carry in the lower house by two-thirds vote, in the opinion of M. W. Duffy, deputy secretary of state.

Senate bill No. 197, appropriating $18,000 for the immigration department for two years, amends and re-enacts chapter 146 of the session laws of 1919. The law was referred at a special election June 26, and sustained, he says, adding that a two-thirds vote is necessary to amend a referred law. The amendment passed the house by a vote of 67 to 40, according to the records, he said.

"The law is clearly unconstitutional—if the constitution still functions in North Dakota," Mr. Duffy said.

The original measure provided for a commissioner of immigration and fixed his salary. There is no measure outside of senate bill No. 197, however, which provides an appropriation.

Santo Domingo, Mar. 17.—The six United States army airplanes engaged in a test flight from San Antonio to Porto Rico arrived here this morning from Port Au Prince, Haiti.

APPOINTED ON BOARD
H. C. Cooper of Abercrombie has been appointed a member of the state board of dental examiners by Governor Nelson, succeeding Dr. C. C. Hibbs of Bismarck.

Miss Elizabeth Downey, state librarian, has been named delegate to the National Association of Librarians at Hot Springs, Ark., the week beginning April 23.

DELUGED BY REPORTS.
Washington, Mar. 17.—While the general public turned with a sigh of relief to pleasant things, the country still was deeply engaged in the annual deluge of income tax mathematics and officials here predicted it would be several days before reliable figures were available upon the total that had been paid into the federal treasury.

Considering Forwarding Protest Against Hildreth
Statement to Washington

PRESENTED IN COURT

Jurors Ask Retraction Based
on Interview Regarding
Jurors and Oaths

Twenty-seven jurors in federal court here, after protesting in open court against remarks of United States District Attorney M. A. Hildreth alleged to be derogatory to the jurors, were debating today whether or not they would forward a formal protest to the Department of Justice at Washington, D. C.

The jurors presented before Judge Miller a demand that the district attorney either retract the statements made by him or furnish proof of the allegation. No action was taken in the court.

The action of the jurors was impelled from an interview published in the Bismarck Tribune in which District Attorney Hildreth was quoted as stating that "perjury is the most prevalent crime in the United States today" and that there is "general disrespect of the oath among jurors as well as witnesses and that 'the truth of the matter is that jurors as well as witnesses will go on the stand and disregard their oath.'"

The District Attorney also was quoted as saying that perjury cases would constitute an important part of the next grand jury's investigation.

The protest of the jurors, who believe the remarks derogatory to them because in the two criminal cases tried in the federal court, verdicts of acquittal were rendered. In two other cases a verdict of acquittal was directed while the cases were before the jurors.

Resolution Read
D. E. Shipley of Dickinson read the resolution of the jurors, which incorporated the article referred to, before Judge Miller.

Assistant District Attorney S. L. Nichols objected to the portion which asked that the resolution be made a part of the court records. District Attorney Hildreth, who is present in court and said nothing, Judge Miller received the resolution, discussed the matter, stated that he did not believe the District Attorney intended to cast reflection upon the jurors at this term of court, said with respect to the two cases in which the jurors returned verdicts of acquittal he believed the jurors found correctly and said the jurors had given good service in the court.

The resolution, which traveled from Mr. Shipley to the clerk and to the judge returned by the same route, and the court ordered business to proceed.

After quoting the article the resolution said:

"From the reading of the article, it appears to the jurors that this is a reflection on the honesty and integrity of the members. It is hard for the jurors to take two or three weeks of their time from their business; they are, however, conscious of their duty as jurors; they have been trying to be faithful to their duty and faithful according to the best of their ability to the oath they have taken."

Trapper Reported Dead in Battle
With Timber Wolves

Saskatoon, Can., March 17.—Carl Lynn, one of the best known trappers in the North Country, is believed to have lost his life in a battle with a pack of timber wolves, two hunters reported today. They said they thought his body was devoured by the pack after he had killed six of the beasts. Strips of clothing and a gun identified as belonging to Lynn surrounded by carcasses of six wolves were found by the hunters near Cree Lake, 200 miles north of Isle LaCrosse, but a trace of the hunter's body was lacking.

Storm Riding Out of Canada
Brings Mercury Down
To 8 Below

After enjoying mild weather and reading of storm reports several hundred miles south and east of here, Bismarck citizens got a new taste of winter this morning.

Rising to 40 above zero yesterday the mercury began to sink during the night under a chilling north wind, and at 8 o'clock this morning it was 8 below zero. The thermometer continued to fall to 10 below zero at Bismarck was not alone in the Northwest in sub-zero temperatures. It was 6 below at Calgary last night, 10 below at Edmonton 24 below at Prince Albert, 4 below at S. S. Marie, 14 below at Swift Current, 8 below at Williston, 22 below at Winnipeg and zero at Moorhead, Minn. The wind reached a velocity of 35 miles an hour.

The weather bureau reported an extensive high pressure area centered over Saskatchewan that is causing cold weather in North Dakota westward and northward. The forecast is cold tonight, but not so cold Sunday.

DEDUCTIONS LIKE THOSE MADE IN
detectives stories comprise part of the state's reliance in its effort to convince 11 men jurors and one woman juror—the first in the history of Burleigh county—of the guilt of Henry Weins, charged with burning the threshing separator of a neighbor. The case is on trial in the district court.

The state claims Weins drove in his automobile to the field where the separator was standing and set fire to it, about last September 30. His automobile, they claim, had four tires, each of different make. Imprints of tires were made near the separator and on the road. Through these imprints, the state claims, it can identify the brand of tires and asserts this is proof of Weins' car.

The state, represented by States Attorney Allen and J. M. Hanley, engaged by private parties, also seeks to strengthen its case by statements witnesses say were made by Weins and other evidence.

Weins, who denies guilt, is represented by Scott Cameron, and the defense may not finish its presentation today. Weins is charged with malicious mischief.

The first woman juror in the county to actually sit in the jury box is Mrs. W. H. Bodenstab of Bismarck. She is a member of the regular panel for this term of court and this is the first case she has been called upon to sit as a juror.

Former Senator T. C. Power died yesterday afternoon at Helena, Montana at the age of 84 years after an illness extending over several months. Senator Power was considered one of the leading figures in the business and political life of the state having been its first U. S. Senator with the granting of statehood in 1891 and was one of the most prominent Republicans in Montana for many years. His business interests were very extensive throughout the state although for the past several years he had relinquished the active management of many of them to his son Charles B. Power of Helena, who survives him. He has been interested in several North Dakota corporations for many years. Senator Power first passed through what is now Bismarck with General Sully's expedition in 1864. Mrs. Power died about three years ago.

CENSORSHIP IS PUT ON Travelers From Dublin De-
clare Situation Is Tense;
People Fearing Battle

London, Mar. 17.—The reason for the rigid censorship imposed in Dublin yesterday preventing the use of telegraph lines and telephones except for brief messages approved by the authorities is not known here. The London morning newspapers have scarcely any direct news from Dublin. Even the sporting columns contain no late sports on this evening's Siki-McTigue fight except what reached Belfast through travelers.

The Daily Sketch, aside from a story from its London correspondent describing the extraordinary conditions under which the bout will take place, prints a short telegram under the Dublin date line which asserts the city is in "tenderhooks" wondering what Saturday will bring forth.

The government, the dispatch says, is providing armed guards for the Kella theater where the fight will be held and every other place of amusement in order to make sure that the Republican proclamation against opening of such houses shall not be made effective.

Streets Crowded.
Telegrams from Belfast quote "arrivals from Dublin" as saying that the situation is usually tense. The streets were crowded yesterday with troops who, revolvers in hand, kept an incessant vigil, stopping and examining pedestrians. There were no disturbances.

The Belfast correspondent of the Morning Post says that the situation is crystallizing in a remarkable way around the high bout, the Republicans declare that it must not take place, threatening the boxers with death if they appear in the ring.

The government on the other hand has accepted the defiance challenge of the Republicans and is determined to allow the fight as well as other entertainments to take place.

People At Loss.
The public is represented as being at a loss as to what to do. People naturally are not inclined to be caught in a possible conflict between rival forces but must not be less than the seats have been sold and it is hardly probable that most of the ticket holders will be willing to lose both money and sight of boxers.

Other reports from Belfast are along similar lines saying that if the fight is held, the situation is determined it shall be held. The ring will be surrounded by troops armed with bayonets and revolvers.

It is impossible to say whether the reports are conditionally colored. It is expected that the censorship will be raised today and that direct news from Dublin will be forthcoming.

HELD GUILTY OF MURDER

Cassopolis, Mich., Mar. 17.—Mrs. Maude Cushing Storie was convicted of killing her first husband, Claude Cushing, by a jury in circuit court here today and immediately was sentenced to life imprisonment by Judge L. Burget Desvoies. The jury had deliberated since yesterday afternoon. The state charged the woman with causing Cushing's death by poison.

THE WEATHER

For twenty-four hours ending at noon today:
Temperature at 7 a. m. 6
Temperature at 8 a. m. 8
Temperature at noon 0
Highest yesterday 40
Lowest yesterday 11
Lowest last night 16
Precipitation 1
Highest wind velocity 35

Weather Forecast
For Bismarck and vicinity: Generally fair tonight and Sunday. Colder tonight; not quite so cold Sunday.

For North Dakota: Generally fair tonight and Sunday. Colder south portion tonight; not quite so cold Sunday.

Weather Conditions
An extensive high pressure area is centered over Saskatchewan and is causing cold weather from North Dakota westward and northward. Temperatures are 20 degrees below zero in Saskatchewan and Manitoba. The low pressure area has moved rapidly eastward and is centered over Colorado this morning, accompanied by precipitation from the Dakotas westward and northward to the Pacific coast.

INCREASED USE OF BIBLE SEEN

Chicago, Mar. 16.—Increased use of the bible as well as increased quotations of the holy book were indicated here at the meeting of the Council of Boards of Benevolence of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Secretary, American Bible Society, New York told the Council that in the Japanese daily and weekly press, quotations from the bible were printed more than quotations from any other religious books. Bishop William Burt, of Buffalo, in speaking of the growing influence of the bible throughout the world said that he met Premier Mussolini of Italy, who drew from his pocket a small green New Testament which had come from the American Bible society, and said, "this is the best of all books and I am endeavoring to build my life and career according to its principles and teachings."

POLICE HUNT BENEFACTORS OF DEAD GIRL

Seek to Locate Man Who Provided Butterfly With Gilded Wings

HUNTING MURDERERS

Wealthy Tire Man Hinted Said Wanted in Probe of The Police

New York, Mar. 17.—The police today expected to question the mysterious Mr. Marshall, who is generally supposed to have supplied the gilded wings with which Dorothy Keenan, known as Dorothy King, a model, flew as a gay Broadway butterfly to her tragic death.

Police Inspector Coughlin, who is directing the murder investigation, was waiting for the appearance of "Mr. Marshall" and "Wilson, his secretary, to explain their presence Wednesday night in the apartment where the girl's body was found Thursday. Mr. Marshall is said to be a wealthy Bostonian, about 60 years old, and engaged in the automobile tire business with offices in New York, Boston and Philadelphia.

While the girls supposed benefactor may give helpful information, detectives were pinning more faith in a man's small black pocket comb encased in a leather sheath which was found in her bed. They think it was dropped there by the man who administered the drug which caused the girl's death.

Another clue was furnished by the chloroform bottle, but the user had destroyed its value by blotting off the serial number through which the purchaser could be traced. The police are not certain that the bottle was not obtained by Miss Keenan, since stories are told that she was a user of narcotics.

Had Made Will
A will drawn recently by Miss Keenan hinting at fear for her life was taken by the police as further proof that the artist's model had been slain and robbed of her jewels.

Her body was found with an empty chloroform bottle near by in her fashionable West 57th street apartment.

Police say they attach considerable importance to this excerpt of her will, dated Jan. 20, which was found in the apartment:
"I, Georgia Keenan, believing that something unforeseen might happen to me, hereby bequeath all my earthly possessions to my mother."

Meanwhile the police today arrested on a charge of carrying concealed weapons without a permit Albert Duimares of Boston, who is said by the police to have been a close friend of Miss Keenan and to have been with her Sunday night. Police Inspector Coughlin declared that the investigation has disclosed that Miss Keenan had given to Duimares a $750 suit, a player piano and several pieces of jewelry.

REFERENDUM SIGNATURES TO BE SOUGHT

R. W. Frazier Plans to Circulate Petitions at Township Elections, March 20

STATEMENT OF I. V. A.

Fargo, N. D., Mar. 17.—A letter has been dispatched from I. V. A. headquarters in Fargo seeking to combat efforts it says which will be made to secure signatures to petitions for a referendum on election laws, from voters at the township elections March 20.

It quotes a letter from R. W. Frazier, chairman of the Republican state committee, urging that precinct committeemen circulate petitions at the township elections March 20, stating that "if this can be done a sufficient number of signatures will be obtained without expense, other than the printing of the petitions and postage."

Theodore G. Nelson, state chairman of the I. V. A., in a letter to I. V. A. committee campaign members said in part:

It is proper that all I. V. A. supporters should know that an effort is being made to fool Republicans. One R. W. Frazier is sending letters to Republicans throughout the state, stating that the Republican State Executive Committee has decided to initiate a referendum on the election laws. The Executive Committee of the I. V. A. refers to as given on his letterhead are the following: John Micklethun, Wimbeldon; U. L. Burdick, Fargo; F. W. Cathro, Bottineau; Tom Hennessey, Bottineau; Ray Craig, Lisbon; D. A. Cross, Lisbon; John Sherman, Steele; H. P. Knap-pen, Bismarck; C. L. Bakken, Toga; Mrs. Almada Lee, Mohall; M. O. McGrath, Glen Ullin; and W. G. Hunt, Beach.

The most of these people, including Mr. R. W. Frazier himself, are Socialists and have been Socialists for a number of years and neither they nor the newspapers that are their mouthpieces are now loyally supporting either the Republican party or the Harding administration. The scheme is to fool loyal and unsuspecting Republicans into signing referendum petitions on township election day, which is Tuesday, the 20th of March.

Neither R. W. Frazier nor any of the members of his Executive Committee are members of the Republican State Executive Committee of North Dakota that is loyally supporting the Republican party and the Harding administration. The chairman of that committee is B. F. Spaulding.

"Bob" Frazier, who holds the office of clerk of court in Divide county, is cunningly trying to get unsuspecting Republican committeemen to circulate his referendum petitions on the theory that they are rendering a service to the Republican party. Several of those who have received letters from Mr. Frazier have sent their letters in to I. V. A. headquarters, urging us to warn the voters of the effort that is going to be made to fool them on township election day.

Will you not kindly see to it that as many of the Independent workers as can be reached in your county are given this information so that they can get it to the voters on township election day if not sooner.

It says some pamphlets on the election laws have been printed and more will be printed, if necessary, when more money comes in.

HOUSE BLOWN INTO WATERS DURING STORM

RED CROSS IS ACTIVE

Memphis, Tenn., Mar. 17.—Miss Kamelle Akers, Red Cross executive of this city, left Memphis today for the storm-wrecked area in northwest Mississippi where late reports showed 17 persons killed a score or more injured and property damage estimated at a million dollars, resulting from the wind storm which swept through seven counties Thursday night.

Tents for the homeless have already been ordered by the Red Cross and will be available for the devastated towns today or tomorrow. The total known list of fatalities last night was:

A. B. Mabry, Savage.
Mrs. Nance Mabry, his wife.
Mrs. C. W. Mabry, daughter-in-law of Mabry.

John P. Kerr of Savage.
William Cruett, Walnut Ridge, found dead in his bed, his death being from heart failure attributed to excitement from the storm.

Two negroes on plantations two miles east of Savage.
Three negro children on plantations six miles east of Savage.
Six negroes at Lambert.

A negro child and a negro woman at Walnut Lake.
All of the white persons killed were drowned in the Cold Water river after being blown into that swollen stream by the twisting wind.

C. W. Mabry, thrown into the river, survived and saved three others on a raft, but lost his father, mother and wife.

The town of Savage, 40 miles south of Memphis on the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley railroad was almost totally destroyed. Half of two buildings alone were standing today. Several houses were blown into the river.

DODGE DEALERS HOLD MEETING IN BISMARCK
Discuss New Dodge Features and Plan for Season's Deliveries
Dodge Brothers' dealers in the Bismarck territory held a meeting here yesterday to talk over Dodge quality and Dodge service. As the guests of M. B. Gilman and Co., they were entertained during the day, a banquet was served in the evening and a theater party at the Eltinge followed.
The new one and one-half ton truck manufactured by Dodge Brothers was featured at the meeting by a special factory representative.
Mr. Gilman looks forward to the largest Dodge season in the history of the company and realized the advantage of calling the Dodge dealers together to map out plans for satisfactory delivery to customers. The factory is running to capacity, now being behind in its orders, and the get-together meeting took up the problem of working out satisfactory deliveries, which it is believed, was accomplished.

TRAINING CLASSES FORMED TO TEACH RAW RECRUITS
Willis-Overland in Race to Meet Demand for Cars Find it Necessary to Open School for Workers
Demand for Willis-Knight and Overland cars has hit a point where the Willis-Overland factory at Toledo, Ohio, is scarcely able to keep one jump ahead of the insistent call for cars and more cars.
On the 23 of February, 1,449 cars were shipped out of the Toledo plant, this number constituting a record for one day's shipments, in the history of the Willis-Overland Company.
By the early part of April, the factory will have built 50,000 cars, or approximately one-half of the number built during 1922.
Despite numerous devices whereby the efficiency of the factory force has been increased to a point, where one man is now building 2.55 cars to one car last year, the company are experiencing serious difficulties in getting a sufficient number of skilled and unskilled workers, to speed up production to the necessary stage, that will allow the sales department to keep safely ahead of orders.
Training schools are now established at the Toledo plant and raw recruits after an examination are put into classes where specialized instruction will fit them to take a position on the regular force, soon as they can possibly be prepared.
At the present time, nearly 11,000 men are employed at the Toledo Works, and this number should be increased immediately to 16,000 men

Allies
Two of the best things that a man can have are a life insurance policy and a savings account. They are his allies in helping him to cultivate one of the finest qualities of citizenship—thrift.
The two work together admirably. The life insurance policy looks forward to a more or less remote future; the savings account is a provision for more immediate emergencies. For the man of moderate income the savings account can be made the handmaid of the life insurance policy since by setting aside a portion of his income each week into a savings account, funds are provided for meeting the insurance premium when it falls due.
Both are a provision for a host of eventualities that may arise any day. The man who is wise will be foresighted enough to possess himself of both for they are the agencies through which he can create an estate for himself.

Effects of Two Years of Republican Rule
Complete control of the Government has been enjoyed by the Republican party for the two years ending March 4th, when the Congress adjourned. With the prospect of nine months' recess before its successor is convened and the looming of the 1924 presidential campaign, it seems an opportune time for political stock-taking. For this reason, THE LITERARY DIGEST telegraphed to a number of representative leaders of the Republican and Democratic parties asking them to give DIGEST readers their estimates of the result of two years of Republican control in Washington.
Among those who have answered are: Senators La Follette of Wisconsin, Brookhart of Iowa, Robinson of Arkansas, Ralston of Indiana, Harrison of Mississippi, Lodge of Massachusetts, Capper of Kansas, Hon. Wm. J. Bryan, ex-Governor James A. Cox of Ohio, Secretary of Interior Work.
The answers make interesting reading and show a wide range in expression of opinion. Senator La Follette's verbal brickbat concludes, "Thanks to executive incompetence, indecision and misinformation, American people now enjoy broken-down railroads, fifteen-dollar coal and ten-cent sugar. The last act of Administration forces was to block investigation of infamous sugar swindle." At the other extreme, Senator Lodge concludes a hearty tribute to the Administration in these words, "When time brings its perspective to us, we shall see that this has been one of the most efficient and effective Congresses the country has ever had; no Administration has had to deal with more difficult problems."

MANDAN NEWS

NEWTON HEADS CLUB.

At the meeting of the new board of directors of the Mandan Commercial club Thursday evening J. H. Newton was elected president of the club. Other officers elected were: E. A. Ripley, vice president; E. A. Ketter, secretary, and A. H. Peterson, treasurer.

Following the election plans for future activities of the club were made.

At the meeting of the Fortnightly club at the home of Mrs. W. G. Black next Tuesday, March 20, a feature of the program will be debate on Japanese Immigration with Mrs. L. N. Cary and Mrs. F. H. Waldo as leaders. Papers will be given by Mrs. Biggs and Mrs. Robert Wilson. The program committee will report on several subjects suggested for next year's study and it is desired to settle the matter at this meeting.

Mrs. C. L. Spink returned yesterday from Littleville, Wis., where the remains of her late husband were laid to rest. She was accompanied to Mandan by C. A. Bauke of St. Paul, a nephew of her husband.

Funeral services were held for the late Miss Elizabeth Peters, who died Tuesday at the state tuberculosis hospital at Dunsmuir, following a year's illness yesterday afternoon at the Kennedy chapel. Rev. H. H. Owen of the Presbyterian church conducted the services.

Mrs. Paul Hammond of Fort Rice, who has been a patient of the Deaconess hospital returned to her home today.

E. L. Kirby, who has been a patient at the Deaconess hospital has returned to her home.

PEOPLE'S FORUM

WHY NOT?

Editor Tribune: In the Tribune the other evening we noted that you suggested that in view of the fact that two of the candidates for the position of city commissioner to be elected next month had adopted a platform approving the purchase of both the Electric Light and Water Works utilities that the Electric Light utility be purchased first and that the Water Works utility be then purchased from the profits which would be realized from the Electric Light utility. Since publication of your editorial the writer of this communication has made an investigation of the subject to determine if your suggestion would be feasible and we find you are correct for the following dividends on it's $100,000 of capital stock:

In 1920 $20,000 or 20 per cent, 1921 $25,000 or 25 per cent, 1922 $38,855.28, or practically 39 per cent. We have not the figures at hand for dividends declared and paid in January, 1923.

After paying the above dividends the company had a surplus of $100,393.53 which is being invested in stock of other corporations and a substantial part of the same is being loaned to the officers and stockholders of the Hughes Electric company without interest. These figures are taken from a report on file with the Board of Railroad Commissioners.

We therefore submit that the $410,393.53 surplus accumulated from the light consumers would be sufficient and more than sufficient under appraisal made by City Engineer Atkinson of the Bismarck water plant to purchase the water plant.

An Anxious Water and Electric Light Consumer.

SHOULD CO-OPERATE.

Editor Tribune: Just a word in fairness to the city commission and utility of the water controversy. It is a big issue and their first duty of course is to the taxpayers. Their action in calling into consultation the board of directors of the Association of Commerce show that they desire the earnest co-operation of the citizens generally.

Bismarck never can become a city beautiful with water rates where they are. Many people will not beautify their places this year at prevailing rates, the expense is out of the question.

Naturally the Bismarck Water company has sought recourse in the courts just as the Hughes Electric

NO MORE SCENES LIKE THIS

But you couldn't get Wanda Hawley, screen star, and her husband, Burton Hawley, to pose like this nowadays. Since the picture was taken, they've separated and Wanda's filed suit for divorce, charging non-support and cruelty.

Light company did when their exorbitant rates were attacked. This is the modus operandi of public utility companies. It means profitable delay and the enjoyment of existing rates while the legal battle rages. There has been much destructive criticism of the city commission's handling of the water issue, but a glimpse into the real problem serves to impress upon anyone the magnitude of the affair and the difficulties encountered.

The writer thinks the city commission is now on the right track and deserves earnest co-operation until a solution can be secured. Water rates must come down and service must improve as well as the quality of the water bettered for at times the present product is distasteful.

Rates of both the major utilities must go to pre-war levels if Bismarck is to grow commercially and it would appear that Commissioners Larson and French are right when they advocate the acquisition of both utilities as soon as is feasible in the interests of a bigger and better Bismarck.

POET'S CORNER

THE IRISH.

By Florence Horner, Baldwin, N. D.

Wherever there's an Irishman, there's sure to be some fun,
For the Irish are the leaders in the game;
And their souls with joy are bubbling,
The they hail from Cork or Dublin,
And, you'll find them everywhere the same.

No matter what the Irish do it's sure to be done right,
And in every fracas you will find the Irish lead the fight;
For they love the sound of battle,
Since it helps to prove their mettle,
And it also shows the splendor of their might.

So, here's to the Irish, bless them,
I would fain as "bards" address them;
For they number poets in their ranks,
Such men as all admire;
Though they scribble and fight and chatter,
Till we wonder what the matter.

We are struck with admiration by their words of living fire.

BANKRUPT PETITION FOR DISCHARGE AND ORDER OF NOTICE THEREON.
In the District Court of the United States.

For the Southwestern Division, District of North Dakota.

No. 3862 In Bankruptcy.

To the Honorable Andrew Miller, Judge of the District Court of the United States for the District of North Dakota.

D. B. Register, of Bismarck, in the county of Burleigh, and state of North Dakota, in said district, respectfully represents that on the 2nd day of January, 1923, last past, he was duly adjudged bankrupt under the acts of Congress relating to bankruptcy; that he has duly surrendered all his property and rights of property, and has fully complied with all the requirements of said acts and of the orders of the court touching his bankruptcy.

Wherefore, he prays that he may be decreed by the courts to have a full discharge from all debts provable against his estate under said bankruptcy acts, except such debts as are excepted by law from such discharge.

Dated this 13th day of January, A. D. 1923.

Want Retraction

"Now, therefore, We, the jurors of this term of court resent the statements of District Attorney M. A. Hildreth, which have been given out in this article, giving it attention all over the State, feeling that an injustice has been done the jurymen, and request that the district attorney either retract the statements made or furnish proof of the allegation, and further request that this resolution be made a part of the record of this court."

NO MORE SCENES LIKE THIS

But you couldn't get Wanda Hawley, screen star, and her husband, Burton Hawley, to pose like this nowadays. Since the picture was taken, they've separated and Wanda's filed suit for divorce, charging non-support and cruelty.

Light company did when their exorbitant rates were attacked. This is the modus operandi of public utility companies. It means profitable delay and the enjoyment of existing rates while the legal battle rages. There has been much destructive criticism of the city commission's handling of the water issue, but a glimpse into the real problem serves to impress upon anyone the magnitude of the affair and the difficulties encountered.

The writer thinks the city commission is now on the right track and deserves earnest co-operation until a solution can be secured. Water rates must come down and service must improve as well as the quality of the water bettered for at times the present product is distasteful.

Rates of both the major utilities must go to pre-war levels if Bismarck is to grow commercially and it would appear that Commissioners Larson and French are right when they advocate the acquisition of both utilities as soon as is feasible in the interests of a bigger and better Bismarck.

POET'S CORNER

By Florence Bonner, Baldwin, N. D.

Wherever there's an Irishman, there's sure to be some fun,
For the Irish are the leaders in the game,
And their souls with joy are bubbling,
The hail from Cork or Dublin,
And you'll find them everywhere the same.

No matter what the Irish do it's sure to be done right,
And in every fracas you will find the Irish lead the fight;
For they love the sound of battle,
Since it helps to prove their mettle,
And it also shows the splendor of their might.

So, here's to the Irish, bless them,
I would fain as "bards" address them;
For they number poets in their ranks,
Such men as all admire;
Though they scrap, and fight and chatter.

Till we wonder what's the matter,
We are struck with admiration at their words of living fire.

BANKRUPT'S PETITION FOR DISCHARGE AND ORDER OF NOTICE THEREON

In the District Court of the United States,
For the Southwestern Division, District of North Dakota.

No. 3862 In Bankruptcy.
In the Matter of D. B. Register, Bankrupt.

To the Honorable Andrew Miller, Judge of the District Court of the United States for the District of North Dakota.

D. B. Register, of Bismarck, in the county of Burleigh, and state of North Dakota, in said district, respectfully represents that on the 2nd day of January, 1923, last past, he was duly adjudged bankrupt under the acts of Congress relating to bankruptcy; that he has duly surrendered all his property and rights of property, and has fully complied with all the requirements of said acts and of the orders of the court touching his bankruptcy.

Wherefore, he prays that he may be decreed by the court to have a full discharge from all debts provable against his estate under said bankruptcy acts, except such debts as are excepted by law from such discharge.

Dated this 13th day of January, A. D. 1923.

NEWTON HEADS CLUB.

At the meeting of the new board of directors of the Mandan Commercial club Thursday evening J. H. Newton was elected president of the club. Other officers elected were: E. A. Ripley, vice president; E. A. Ketter, secretary, and A. H. Peterson, treasurer.

Following the election plans for future activities of the club were made.

At the meeting of the Fortnightly club at the home of Mrs. W. G. Black next Tuesday, March 20, a feature of the program will be a debate on Japanese Immigration with Mrs. L. N. Cary and Mrs. F. H. Waldo as leaders. Papers will be given by Mrs. Biggs and Mrs. Robert Wilson. The program committee will report on several subjects suggested for next year's study and it is desired to settle the matter at this meeting.

Mrs. C. L. Spink returned yesterday from Plattville, Wis., where the remains of her late husband were laid to rest. She was accompanied to Mandan by C. A. Baulke of St. Paul, a nephew of her husband.

Funeral services were held for the late Miss Elizabeth Peters, who died Tuesday at the state tuberculosis hospital at Dunseith, following a year's illness yesterday afternoon at the Kennedy chapel. Rev. H. H. Owen of the Presbyterian church conducted the services.

Mrs. Paul Hammond of Fort Rice, who has been a patient of the Deaconess hospital returned to her home today.

E. E. Kirby, who has been a patient at the Deaconess hospital has returned to her home.

PEOPLE'S FORUM

WHY NOT?

In an editorial in the Tribune the other evening we note that you suggested that in view of the fact that two of the candidates for the position of city commissioner to be elected next month had adopted a platform approving the purchase of both the Electric Light and Water Works utilities that the Electric Light utility be purchased first and that the Water Works utility be then purchased from the profits which would be realized from the Electric Utility. Since publication of your editorial the writer of this communication has made an investigation of the subject to determine if your suggestion would be feasible and we find you are correct for the following dividends on it's $100,000 of capital stock.

In 1920 $20,000 or 20 per cent, 1921 $25,000 or 25 per cent, 1922 $38,855.28, or practically 39 per cent. We have not the figures at hand for a dividend declared and paid in January, 1923.

After paying the above dividends the company had a surplus of $410,393.53 which is being invested in stock of other corporations and a substantial part of the same is being loaned to the officers and stockholders of the Hughes Electric company without interest. These figures are taken from a report on file with the Board of Railroad Commissioners.

We, therefore, submit that the $410,393.53 surplus accumulated from the light consumers would be sufficient and more than sufficient under appraisal made by City Engineer Atkinson of the Bismarck water plant to purchase the water plant.

An Anxious Water and Electric Light Consumer.

SHOULD CO-OPERATE.

Editor Tribune:
Just a word in fairness to the city commission in their handling of the water controversy. It is a big issue and their first duty of course is to the taxpayers. Their action in calling into consultation the board of directors of the Association of Commerce show that they desire the earnest co-operation of the citizens generally.

Bismarck never can become a city beautiful with water rates where they are. Many people will not benefit their places this year at prevailing rates, the expense is out of the question.

Naturally the Bismarck Water company has sought recourse in the courts just as the Hughes Electric

POLICE HUNT BENEFACTORS OF DEAD GIRL

HUNTING MURDERERS

Wealthy Tired Man Hinted Said Wanted in Probe of The Police

New York, Mar. 17.—The police today expected to question the mysterious Mr. Marshall, who is generally supposed to have supplied the gilded wings with which Dorothy Keenan, known as Dorothy King, a model, flew as a gay Broadway butterfly to her tragic death.

Police Inspector Coughlin, who is directing the murder investigation, was waiting for the appearance of Mr. Marshall and "Wilson, his secretary," to explain their presence Wednesday night in the apartment where the girl's body was found Thursday. Mr. Marshall is said to be a wealthy Bostonian, about 60 years old, and engaged in the automobile tire business with offices in New York, Boston and Philadelphia.

While the girls' supposed benefactor may give helpful information on detectives were running madly in search of a man's small black pocket comb encased in a leather sheath which was found in her bed. They think it was dropped there by the man who administered the drug which caused the girl's death.

Another clue was furnished by the chloroform bottle, but the user had destroyed its value by blotting off the serial number through which the purchaser could be traced. The police are not certain that the bottle was not obtained by Miss Keenan, since stories are told that she was a user of narcotics.

Had Made Will
A will drawn recently by Miss Keenan hinting at fear for her life was taken by the police as further proof that the artist's model had been slain and robbed of her jewels. Her body was found with an empty chloroform bottle near by in her fashionable West 57th street apartment.

Police say they attach considerable importance to this except of the will, dated Jan. 20, which was found in the apartment.

I. George Keenan, believing that something unforeseen might happen to him, hereby bequeath all my earthly possessions to my mother.

Meanwhile the police today arrested on a charge of carrying concealed weapons without a permit, a Dumares of Boston, who is said to the police to have been a close friend of Miss Keenan and to have been with her Sunday night. Police Inspector Coughlin declared that the investigation has disclosed that Miss Keenan had given to Dumares a $7500 piano, a player piano and several other pieces of jewelry.

The most of these people, including Mr. R. W. Frazier himself, are Socialists and have been Socialists for a number of years and neither they nor the newspapers that are their mouthpieces are now loyally supporting either the Republican party or the Harding administration. The scheme is to fool loyal and unsuspecting Republicans into signing referendum petitions on township election day which is Tuesday the 20th of March. Neither R. W. Frazier nor any of the members of his Executive Committee are members of the Republican State Executive Committee of North Dakota that is loyally supporting the Republican party and the Harding administration. The chairman of that committee is B. F. Spaulding, "Bob" Frazier, who holds the office of clerk of court in Divide county, is cunningly trying to get unsuspecting Republican committeemen to circulate his referendum petitions on the theory that they are rendering a service to the Republican party. Several of those who have received letters from Mr. Frazier have sent their letters in to I. V. A. headquarters, urging us to warn the voters of the effort that is going to be made to fool them on township election day. Will you not kindly see to it that as many of the independent workers as can be reached in your county are given this information so that they can get it to the voters on township election day if not sooner.

It says some pamphlets on the election laws have been printed and more will be printed, if necessary, when more money comes in.

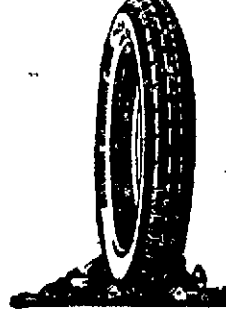

AT THE MOVIES

THE ELTINGE
Katherine MacDonald appears at the Eltinge on Monday in "The Intidel," a story of adventure and romance in the sea and among the South Sea Islands. Others in the cast are Joseph J. Dowling, Robert Ellis, and Barbara Tennant. Antonio Minervini, artistic accordion entertainer will appear at the Eltinge Monday as well as Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday when the special feature "Skin Deep" starring Milton Sills and Florence Vidor will be shown.

Announcement
I desire to announce my candidacy for the office of Police Magistrate, subject to the will of the voters in the election on April 3. My motto is "A Square Deal to All." Will appreciate your support.

DODGE DEALERS HOLD MEETING IN BISMARCK

Discuss New Dodge Features and Plan for Season's Deliveries

Dodge Brothers' dealers in the Bismarck territory held a meeting here yesterday to talk over Dodge quality and Dodge service. As the guests of M. B. Gilman and Co., they were entertained during the day, a banquet was served in the evening and a theater party at the Eltinge followed.

The new one and one-half ton truck manufactured by Dodge Brothers was featured at the meeting by a special factory representative.

Mr. Gilman looks forward to the largest Dodge season in the history of the company and realized the advantage of calling the Dodge dealers together to map out plans for satisfactory delivery to customers. The factory is running to capacity, now being behind in its orders, and the get-together meeting took up the problem of working out satisfactory deliveries, which it is believed, was accomplished.

TRAINING CLASSES FORMED TO TEACH RAW RECRUITS

Willis-Overland in Race to Meet Demand for Cars Find it Necessary to Open School for Workers

Demand for Willis-Knight and Overland cars has hit a point where the Willis-Overland factory at Toledo, Ohio, is scarcely able to keep one jump ahead of the insistent call for cars and more cars.

On the 23 of February, 1,449 cars were shipped out of the Toledo plant, this number constituting a record for one day's shipment, in the history of the Willis-Overland Company.

By the early part of April, the factory will have built 50,000 cars, or approximately one-half of the number built during 1922.

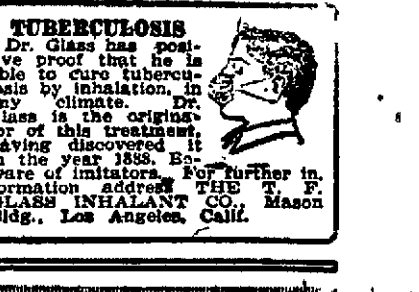

Despite numerous devices whereby the efficiency of the factory force has been increased to a point, where one man is now building 2.55 cars to one car last year, the company are experiencing serious difficulties in getting a sufficient number of skilled and unskilled workers, to speed up production to the necessary stage, that will allow the sales department to keep safely ahead of orders.

Training schools are now established at the Toledo plant and raw recruits after an examination are put into classes where specialized instruction will fit them to take a position on the regular force, soon as they can possibly be prepared.

At the present time, nearly 11,000 men are employed at the Toledo Works, and this number should be increased immediately to 16,000 men.

Allies

Two of the best things that a man can have are a life insurance policy and a savings account. They are his allies in helping him to cultivate one of the finest qualities of citizenship—thrift.

The two work together admirably. The life insurance policy looks forward to a more or less remote future; the savings account is a provision for more immediate emergencies. For the man of moderate income the savings account can be made the handmaid of the life insurance policy since by setting aside a portion of his income each week into a savings account, funds are provided for meeting the insurance premium when it falls due.

Both are a provision for a host of eventualities that may arise any day. The man who is wise will be foresighted enough to possess himself of both for they are the agencies through which he can create an estate for himself.

Effects of Two Years of Republican Rule

Complete control of the Government, has been enjoyed by the Republican party for the two years ending March 4th, when the Congress adjourned. With the prospect of nine months' recess before its successor is convened and with the looming of the 1924 presidential campaign, it seems an opportune time for political stock-taking. For this reason, THE LITERARY DIGEST telegraphed to a number of representative leaders of the Republican and Democratic parties asking them to give DIGEST readers their estimates of the result of two years of Republican control in Washington.

Among those who have answered are: Senators La Follette of Wisconsin, Brookhart of Iowa, Robinson of Arkansas, Ralston of Indiana, Harrison of Mississippi, Lodge of Massachusetts, Capper of Kansas, Hon. Wm. J. Bryan, ex-Governor James A. Cox of Ohio, Secretary of Interior Work.

The answers make interesting reading and show a wide range in expression of opinion. Senator La Follette's verbal brickbat concludes, "Thanks to executive incompetence, indecision and misinformation, American people now enjoy broken-down railroads, fifteen-dollar coal and ten-cent sugar. The last act of Administration forces was to block investigation of infamous sugar swindle." At the other extreme, Senator Lodge concludes a hearty tribute to the Administration in these words, "When time brings its perspective to us, we shall see that this has been one of the most efficient and effective Congresses the country has ever had; no Administration has had to deal with more difficult problems."

HANDLING WIVES

You missed a good laugh by not seeing them. They got on the train together—a meek little "also ran" wife and her gruff, pink cheeked giant of a know-it-all husband.

He didn't help her up the steps. To his credit it must be admitted that he was carrying their heavy suitcase—though maybe due to his absent-mindedness or the presence of a quart inside.

He lifted the suitcase to put it on the steel luggage rack overhead. And he grunted, that he knew what he was doing, when she suggested a fear that the heavy suitcase might break down the rack.

She started to insist, but he snapped, cutting her off. So they settled in their day-couch seats. The little woman uncomfortably kept glancing up at the rack and unconsciously fingering her shoulder as if preparing it for a blow.

Again she ventured, "Dear, I'm afraid—"

"Mind your own business, it'll hold," he growled. Bang! The words were no sooner out of his mouth, than down came the suitcase. It struck squarely on his head, crushing his new derby hat.

We watched the couple as the train sped on. It was easy to reconstruct the past, to picture them in their courting days.

She must have been a sweet little soul, dainty, graceful, gentle. Hard work had gnarled and twisted her hands. Worry had wrinkled and blanched her face. But her former glory still peeped timidly and sadly from her eyes.

As a weeping lover, we could picture him—tall, strong, assertive, the kind that appeals to so many sweet, shrinking women.

Of course, he had been one of the eads who mask their real nature, their inner viciousness, until they have won their brides.

Time was unmasking him, bringing out his real nature, just as it does with all of us. Not understanding the law of the Attraction of Opposites, his wife probably is bewildered at the change. Maybe she occasionally wonders if things might not have turned out better if she had married the other man.

It is so easy to become thoughtless, after the first few months or years of married life. With the glamour gone and the romance dulled, thoughtlessness easily becomes neglect.

And the neglect too frequently grows into an indifference and lack of consideration, so that the husband without realizing it says things to his wife and commits discourtesies that he would not dream of trying in the presence of another woman.

Indifferent husbands and careless wives are trampling their roses. The secret of real wedded bliss is in a constant renewal of courting days. Marriage is a failure, the day we become plain husband or wife instead of sweethearts.

A baby is born dead in New York. Dr. Philip Mininberg injects adrenalin, heart starts beating, baby lives. Adrenalin, most powerful heart stimulant, was discovered by a Japanese scientist. A similar chemical, secreted by the adrenal glands attached to your kidneys, is what keeps you alive. At least, you couldn't live without it.

The human body is a chemical machine. Scientists are learning more and more about it as they study the endocrine. M. Brown-Séquard, original gland doctor, was laughed at, 30 years ago. Time proves he was right.

SWEETS

The wholesale price of candy eaten by Americans in 1921 was about 314 million dollars, the Census Bureau announces. This was nearly a third less than in 1919, but more than twice as much as in 1914. Changed prices partly explain the rise and fall. Figure it out accurately, making allowances for price changes, and you'll doubt if we're really eating much more candy than before prohibition.

Sugan consumption has increased tremendously. But most of the increase has gone into home-made wines, not candy.

DOLLAR

The American dollar, worth 100 cents in the year 1913, now has a comparative purchasing power of only 61 cents in buying goods at wholesale. So figures the famous economist, Professor Irving Fisher.

If we can find a way to stabilize the buying power of the dollar, we can get rid of periodical hard times. There is a way. Meantime, Professor Fisher's announcement calls attention to this: Our dollar fluctuates at home the same as foreign moneys rise and fall in foreign exchange.

GRAIN

Eight freighters steam from Petrograd, loaded with Russian wheat for Germany. Grain shipments are also beginning to come out the other way, from Odessa through the Dardanelles.

If you're an American wheat grower, this is today's most important news. The bright spot is that Russia probably will take years to get "back in the market" on a big enough scale to affect materially our wheat growers in the export trade.

Compared with four years ago, industry is in a period of greater activity but smaller profits.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

STREETER'S VIEW

At the recent "Independent" reorganization meeting at Bismarck, the "reorganization" was accomplished by removing Theo. G. Nelson as secretary and making him president instead. It was also decided by the "convention" to read out of the ranks all persons or newspapers that might make faces at Nelson's new election. Now, nothing was said about sending any resolution of fealty to our new senator, Lynn J. Frazier. Actions speak louder than words, and Nelson's bunch had elected him, so they no doubt considered that Frazier could not well ask more of them than that.

Some discussion was had as to a proper name for Nelson's new organization. They finally decided to retain the name "I. V. A." We would suggest that "Nelson's Knights of the Double-Cross" would have been more fitting.

When the I. V. A. "reorganization" meeting was held in Bismarck last month, the Record man was asked to attend, which he did. As soon as we saw the kind of reorganization that was proposed, we—in company with the late John Robinson, of Steele—promptly left the meeting. The next night we were called on the phone by Theo. G. Nelson and asked to attend the committee meeting. We notified him that we wished to have nothing to do with it, and were then asked to attend simply as an onlooker to which we agreed. When the roll of "Committeemen" was read, the Record man had been listed as the committeeman from the Twenty-Sixth district. We then publicly requested that his name be withdrawn.

Lieut. Gov. Frank Hyland then suggested that we had better let our name stand, or the senate might amend the reorganizing bill and put us back with Kidney. We told him that such a possibility would not change our decision. Now, we find that the I. V. A. literature is carrying the name of the editor of this paper as committeeman of the I. V. A. from the Twenty-Sixth district. We again wish to publicly state that such use of our name was unauthorized, and that we are not in fact in any way acting as I. V. A. committeemen from this district. Emmons County Record.

COLLEGE GIRLS

The suicide of two college girls on the same day should make parents mindful of the very real unhappiness often associated with a girl's college career. She may be a brilliant student, but she may be a brilliant student because the coveted "A" escapes her in a single subject, or she may be a poor student and suffer mental agonies because her most desperate efforts fail to give her a passing mark.

Girls take their college work more seriously than boys. The competition for "marks" is keener, the devotion to study more absorbing, the degree of failure in studies is more keenly felt. Outside activities take less time and do not receive the same social recognition. Women faculty members are more severe than men. A Harvard professor once excused himself for giving a "snan" course because it brought the handsome and healthiest boys of each class into his audience and "I just loved to look at them." Can any one imagine the beauties of Vassar or Wellesley controlled by one of their woman teachers for the same reason?

Our leading women's colleges pride themselves on exacting the same scholastic standards as the leading men's colleges. If the truth were known their standards would be found to be even higher. The pressure for admission is so great that they insist rigidly upon catalogue requirements and allow the "reorganization" allowed by men's colleges. Nor have they any mercy on the freshmen who fall behind along the way. They admit more students than they can really care for with the expectation of dropping the surplus after the mid-year tests.

Many a girl would have done better never to have tried college. She loses the joy of life soon after entering because her college career is an unceasing struggle against failure which may easily undermine her health. Many girls who try college are naturally unfitted to stand the strain. Instead of developing strength of character and strength of mind by meeting and overcoming obstacles as their fond parents expect, they develop the "inferiority complex," lose their self-confidence and much of their self-respect. Fortunately not many commit suicide but the number who are unhappy in college is much larger than is generally supposed. Brooklyn Eagle.

A THOUGHT

The thing that hath been, it is that which shall be; and that which is done is that which shall be done; and there is no new thing under the sun.—Eccle. 1:9.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Vendetta begins between MICHAEL SAYERS, noted criminal.

SIR NORMAN GREYES, once of Scotland Yard, when Sayers' beautiful housemaid, JANET, saves him from Sir Norman.

By shooting dead an officer sent to arrest him, Janet becomes Sayers' wife and able accomplice. In many exploits Michael escapes arrest by taking desperate chances. While Sir Norman is living at his country house, Greys Manor, he is shot at from ambush and narrowly escapes death. After series of suspicious "accidents," Greys is convinced that his enemy, Sayers, is again in England. The police appeal to Sir Norman to help run to earth his arch enemy, whom they believe is working at the head of a dangerous gang.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY
 Sir Norman Continues

"Personally," was the confident reply, "I don't think there is the slightest doubt but that the man who has passed at different times as Thomas Pugsley, James Stanfield and originally Michael Sayers, he has vanished from the face of the earth, so far as New York police have ascertained; but they obtained possession of a completed letter which he must have been typing at the time of the raid. The first page he probably destroyed or took with him. The second page refers to you. Here is a copy."

Rimington withdrew from his pocketbook a halfsheet of paper and passed it to me. I read it slowly, word by word. Things here have come to their natural end. The last fortnight has been productive, but there is danger in any further prosecution of our enemies. There is only one man who stands in the way of my return to London. You know well of whom I speak. I wait day by day for your news of him, and hope to hear of no more blunders. See that the woman you know of, too, is carefully watched. She may be as loyal as she seems, but there are moments when I have my doubts. If N. G. can be disposed of—

"Interesting," I remarked, "very. To whom was the letter addressed?" To a firm of letter-brokers in Berners' Street, Rimington replied, "and it was written on the notepaper of a firm of hide-brokers in New York."

"The letter is from our friend, right enough," I decided. "There have been two attempts upon my life within the last two days, and I have just sent away a secretary who was keeping a careful note of my doings."

We talked for an hour or more, and arrived without difficulty at a mutual understanding. Rimington undertook to send a good man down from Scotland Yard to make inquiries in the neighborhood, and he promised also to trace my late secretary's antecedents through the office from which she had come. In the meantime he begged me to return to London with him. The suggestion was not at first altogether attractive to me.

"I don't like being driven away from my own home," I grumbled. "Besides, there will be nothing for me to do in London at this time of the year."

"Greys," he said earnestly, "listen to me: You can play golf round London, and get on with your book. You are far safer there than you would be in an unprotected neighborhood like this. But apart from that, altogether, we want you up there. This wave of crime in New York has ceased, Paris, too, is quiet. The Chief is profoundly impressed with the belief that it is because with its unsilenced explosions. Across Salisbury Plain, as we drew near Stonehenge, a cruelly cold wind was blowing. We drank from a flask which I had brought, and wrapped ourselves up a little closer. At some crossroads, high up in the bleakest part, another car was waiting, its lights out, its appearance sinister. We passed it, however, at fifty miles an hour, and the man who was its sole occupant scarcely looked at us. The road rose to Andover, through Basingstoke, and settled down into a steady fifty miles an hour along wonderful roads. The moon was pale now, and there were signs of dawn right ahead of us, a thin streak of silver in the clouds, slowly changing to a dull purple. Before we had realized it, we were in the outskirts of London, our pace gradually reduced, but still racing through the somber twilight.

At Isleworth, just as we had passed under the railway arch, I felt the brakes suddenly applied and thrust my head out of the window. We had come almost to a standstill, stopped by a stalwart policeman. He was looking at us with a stern, questioning eye. I had been talking to the occupant of a taxi cab, who had been driven up by the side of the road. He came up to the open window.

"Are you gentlemen going through to London?" he inquired. "We are," I told him. "What can we do for you?"

The words had scarcely left my lips when I knew that we were in a trap. I realized it just in time to save my life. I struck with all my force at the ugly little black revolver which was thrust almost into my face. There was a report, a sharp pain at the top of my shoulder, and the revolver itself slipped from the man's crushed fingers. I was within an ace of having him by the throat, but he just eluded me. The touring car was now passing us slowly, and he leaped into it, leaving his helmet lying in the road. A third man, who seemed to rise up from underneath our car, tore along and jumped in.

At Wiveliscombe, a man with a motorcycle stood silent as we passed. He leaned forward as though to see the number of our car. In the twinkling of an eye he had passed us, his powerful engine making the night hideous.

It was no easy matter, however. All through the night I was haunted by fancies. The gorge-bushes on the moors seemed like crouching men, the whistle from a distant railway train a warning of impending danger. In a small village before we arrived at Taunton, a man stood in the open doorway of his house, looking out at the night. He scanned us as we passed, and turned away. Through the uncurtained window of his sitting room I saw a telephone on his table.

with its unsilenced explosions. Across Salisbury Plain, as we drew near Stonehenge, a cruelly cold wind was blowing. We drank from a flask which I had brought, and wrapped ourselves up a little closer. At some crossroads, high up in the bleakest part, another car was waiting, its lights out, its appearance sinister. We passed it, however, at fifty miles an hour, and the man who was its sole occupant scarcely looked at us. The road rose to Andover, through Basingstoke, and settled down into a steady fifty miles an hour along wonderful roads. The moon was pale now, and there were signs of dawn right ahead of us, a thin streak of silver in the clouds, slowly changing to a dull purple. Before we had realized it, we were in the outskirts of London, our pace gradually reduced, but still racing through the somber twilight.

At Isleworth, just as we had passed under the railway arch, I felt the brakes suddenly applied and thrust my head out of the window. We had come almost to a standstill, stopped by a stalwart policeman. He was looking at us with a stern, questioning eye. I had been talking to the occupant of a taxi cab, who had been driven up by the side of the road. He came up to the open window.

The words had scarcely left my lips when I knew that we were in a trap. I realized it just in time to save my life. I struck with all my force at the ugly little black revolver which was thrust almost into my face. There was a report, a sharp pain at the top of my shoulder, and the revolver itself slipped from the man's crushed fingers. I was within an ace of having him by the throat, but he just eluded me. The touring car was now passing us slowly, and he leaped into it, leaving his helmet lying in the road. A third man, who seemed to rise up from underneath our car, tore along and jumped in.

Gay Decorations Are Feature of St. Patrick Dance

Gay decorations in shades of green have transformed the McKenzies hotel into a St. Patrick restaurant for the dance to be held there this evening. The windows in the dining room are curtained with streamers of green and the lights dimmed with emerald coverings. The menu for the evening consists of a combination of all the favorite viands served in Kilarney. Flowers used to decorate the tables and designs on the napkins add the final touch in decorative achievements for the affair.

Hibernian music from Castle Garden will be a feature of the evening's entertainment. Dancing will begin at 9:30 o'clock and "we won't go home till morning", the program announces.

LEGION AUXILIARY DANCE

Those in the receiving line at the door at the St. Patrick dance given by the American Legion Auxiliary will include Mrs. Carl Knutson, Mrs. P. G. Harrington, Misses Emma McGarvey, and Margaret Wyncoop; the committee in charge of fruit punch will be Mrs. Ray Stair and Miss Mary Sheehan, and the cloak room will be in charge of Miss Ruth Wyncoop and Mrs. M. H. Schaecker. Wagner's orchestra will furnish music for the occasion.

LAST MASONIC STAR DANCE

A dancing party, the last of the season, to be given by the Masons and Eastern Star Ladies will be held at the Masonic Temple March 23. Mrs. Clifton Johnson, chairman of the Eastern Star committee, will be assisted by Meses. E. V. Lahr, R. M. Bergeson, C. E. Nupen, P. J. Owens, Jack Oberg, and J. H. Johnson. S. S. B. B. C. Gives Literary Program

An interesting literary program was given by the students of the Bismarck Business college at the college yesterday afternoon. The meeting was called to order by Miss Dinger, vice president and the minutes were read by Mr. Wagner, secretary.

The program included the following numbers:

"America," sung by the school.

Vocal selections—"There's Ever a Song Somewhere," "God Remembers When the World Forgets" by Bond.

Mrs. Larson.

Quartet—Two popular selections, Misses Gulling and Wolf and Messrs. Warford and Casey.

A feature of the afternoon's program was a talk given by George N. Keniston. He spoke of salaries paid to office help, stating the value of a worker from the eyebrows down was only sixty to a hundred dollars per month and one from the eyebrows up "will be said all he earns."

The menu for the evening consists of a combination of all the favorite viands served in Kilarney. Flowers used to decorate the tables and designs on the napkins add the final touch in decorative achievements for the affair.

Hibernian music from Castle Garden will be a feature of the evening's entertainment. Dancing will begin at 9:30 o'clock and "we won't go home till morning," the program announces.

LEGION AUXILIARY DANCE. The receiving line at the door at the St. Patrick dance given by the American Legion Auxiliary will include Mrs. Carl Knudsen, Mrs. P. G. Harrington, Misses Emma McGarvey, and Margaret Wyncoop; the committee in charge of fruit punch will be Mrs. Ray Stair and Miss Mary Sheehan, and the clerk room will be in charge of Miss Ruth Wyncoop and Mrs. M. H. Schaefer. Wagner's orchestra will furnish music for the occasion.

LAST MASONIC STAR DANCE. A dancing party, the last of the season, to be given by the Masons and Eastern Star Ladies will be held at the Masonic Temple March 23. Mrs. Clifton Johnson, chairman of the Eastern Star committee, will be assisted by Misses E. V. Lahr, R. M. Bergeson, C. B. Nupen, Price Owens, Jack Oberg, and Van Middlemas. H. S. Leback, chairman of the Masonic committee, will be assisted by B. M. Dunn and J. E. Kaulfuss.

The best of music will be furnished by the McKenzie orchestra.

B. B. C. Gives Literary Program

An interesting literary program was given by the students of the Bismarck Business college at the college yesterday afternoon. The meeting was called to order by Miss Dinger, vice president and the minutes were read by Mr. Wagner, secretary.

The program included the following numbers:

"America," sang by the school.

Vocal selections—"There's Ever a Song Somewhere," "God Remembers When the World Forgets" by Bond, Mrs. Larson.

Quartet—Two popular selections, Misses Gulling and Wolf and Messrs. Warford and Casey.

A feature of the afternoon's program was a talk given by George N. Keniston. He spoke of salaries paid to office help, stating the value of a worker from the eyebrows down was only sixty to a hundred dollars per month and one from the eyebrows up "will be paid all he earns."

He urged the necessity of neatness in dress and emphasized the fact that girls should wear appropriate business clothes for office work.

MINISTER RETURNS. Rev. C. P. Strutz has returned from Chasely, where he has been assisting his nephew in conducting evangelistic services during the past week.

CONSULTS PHYSICIANS. Dr. and Mrs. J. Mehlhoff and children of Washburn were Bismarck visitors today. Dr. Mehlhoff was consulting with a physician.

P. E. O. CHAPTER MEETS. The P. E. O. chapter is to meet with Mrs. E. B. Cox Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at her home, 302 Thayer street.

ST. MARY'S SEWING CIRCLE. All ladies of St. Mary's sewing circle will hold a food, apron, and fancy work sale, March 31 at the J. I. Roop store on Fifth street.

GUEST OF THE HINCKLEYS. Mrs. F. F. Lambert of the Twin Butte stock farm is spending several days in the city as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hinckley.

REGULAR SERVICES AT CHURCH. St. Patrick's day was observed by regular services today at the Catholic church.

(Established 1873)

HANDLING WIVES

You missed a good laugh by not seeing them. They got on the train together—a meek little “also ran” wife and her gruff, pink cheeked giant of a know-it-all husband.

He didn't help her up the steps. To his credit, it must be admitted that he was carrying their heavy suitcase—though maybe due to his absent-mindedness or the presence of a quart inside.

He lifted the suitcase to put it on the steel luggage rack overhead. And he grunted, that he knew what he was doing, when she suggested a fear that the heavy suitcase might break down the rack.

She started to insist, but he snappled, cutting her off. So they settled in their day-couch seats. The little woman uncomfortably kept glancing up at the rack and unconsciously fingering her shoulder as if preparing it for a blow. Again she ventured, “Dear, I'm afraid—

 “Bang!” The words were no sooner out of his mouth than down came the suitcase. It struck squarely on his head, crushing his new derby hat.

We watched the couple as the train sped on. It was easy to reconstruct the past, to picture them in their courting days.

She must have been a sweet little soul, dainty, graceful, gentle. Hard work had gnarled and twisted her hands. Worry had wrinkled and blanched her face. But her former glory still peeped timidly and sadly from her eyes.

As a wooing lover, we could picture him—tall, strong, assertive, the kind that appeals to so many sweet, shrinking women.

Of course, he had been one of the cads who mask their real natures, their inner viciousness, until they have won their brides.

Time was unmasking him, bringing out his real nature, just as it does with all of us. Not understanding the law of the Attraction of Opposites, his wife probably is bewildered at the change. Maybe she occasionally wonders if things might not have turned out better if she had married the other man.

It is so easy to become thoughtless, after the first few months or years of married life. With the glamour gone and the romance dulled, thoughtlessness easily becomes neglect.

And the neglect too frequently grows into an indifference and lack of consideration, so that the husband without realizing it says things to his wife and commits discourtesies that he would not dream of trying in the presence of another woman.

Indifferent husbands and careless wives are trampling their roses. The secret of real wedded bliss is in a constant renewal of courting days. Marriage is a failure, the day we become plain husband or wife instead of sweethearts.

A baby is born dead in New York. Dr. Philip Mininberg injects adrenalin, heart starts beating, baby lives. Adrenalin, most powerful heart stimulant, was discovered by a Japanese scientist. A similar chemical, secreted by the adrenal glands attached to your kidneys, is what keeps you alive. At least, you couldn't live without it.

The human body is a chemical machine. Scientists are learning more and more about it as they study the endocrine. M. Brown-Séquard, original gland doctor, was laughed at, 30 years ago. Time proves he was right.

SWEETS

The wholesale price of candy eaten by Americans in 1921 was about $14 million dollars, the Census Bureau announces. This was nearly a third less than in 1919, but more than twice as much as in 1914. Changed prices partly explain the rise and fall. Figure it out accurately, making allowances for price changes, and you'll doubt if we're really eating much more candy than before prohibition.

Sugar consumption has increased tremendously. But most of the increase has gone into home-made wines, not candy.

DOLLAR

The American dollar, worth 100 cents in the year 1913, now has a comparative purchasing power of only 61 cents in buying goods at wholesale. So figures the famous economist, Professor Irving Fisher.

If we can find a way to stabilize the buying power of the dollar, we can get rid of periodical hard times. There is a way. Meantime, Professor Fisher's announcement calls attention to this: Our dollar fluctuates at home the same as foreign moneys rise and fall in foreign exchange.

GRAIN

Eight freighters steam from Petrograd, loaded with Russian wheat for Germany. Grain shipments are also beginning to come out the other way, from Odessa through the Dardanelles.

If you're an American wheat grower, this is today's most important news. The bright spot is that Russia probably will take years to get “back in the market” on a big enough scale to affect materially our wheat growers in the export trade.

The railroads recently have been handling a fourth more cars of freight than in the corresponding weeks of 1919, during the big post-war boom.

Compared with four years ago, industry is in a period of greater activity but smaller profits.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

STREETERS' VIEW

At the recent “Independent” reorganization meeting at Bismarck, the “reorganization” was accomplished by removing Theo. G. Nelson as secretary and making him president instead. It was also decided by the “convention” to read out of the ranks all persons or newspapers that might make faces at Nelson's new election law. Nothing was said about sending any objection to our new senator, Lena J. Frazier. Actions speak louder than words, and Nelson's bunch elected him, so they no doubt considered that Frazier could not well ask more of them than that.

Some discussion was had as to a proper name for Nelson's new organization. They finally decided to retain the name “I. V. A.” We would suggest that “Nelson's Knights of the Double-Cross” would have been more fitting.

When the I. V. A. “reorganization” meeting was held in Bismarck last month, the Record man was asked to attend, which he did. As soon as we saw the kind of reorganization that was proposed, we—in company with the late John Robinson, of Steele—promptly left the meeting. The next night we were called on the phone by Theo. G. Nelson and asked to attend the committee meeting. We notified him that we wished to have nothing to do with it, and were then asked to attend simply as an onlooker—to which we agreed. When the roll of “Committeemen” was read, the Record man had been listed as the committeeman from the Twenty-Sixth district. We then publicly requested that our name be withdrawn. Lieut. Gov. Frank Hyland then suggested that we had better let our name stand, or the senate might amend the re-appointing bill and put Emmerson back with Kuyper. We told him that such a possibility would not change our decision. Now, we find that the I. V. A. literature is carrying the name of the editor of this paper as committeeman of the I. V. A. from the Twenty-Sixth district. We again wish to publicly state that such use of our name was unauthorized, and that we are not in fact in any way acting as I. V. A. committeemen from this district. Emmerson County Record.

COLLEGE GIRLS

The suicide of two college girls on the same day should make parents mindful of the very real unhappiness often associated with a girl's college career. She may be a brilliant student and fall into the depths of despair because the coveted “A” escapes her in a single subject, or she may be a poor student and suffer mental agony because her most desperate efforts fail to give her a passing mark.

Girls take their college work more seriously than boys. The competition for “marks” is keener, the devotion to study more intense, the degree of failure in studies is more keenly felt. Outside activities take less time and do not receive the same social recognition. Women faculty members are more severe than men. A Harvard professor once excused himself for giving a “snan” course because it brought the handsome and healthful boy of each class into his audience and “I just love to look at them.” Can any one imagine the beauties of Vasari or Wellesele corralled by one of their woman teachers for the same reason?

Our leading women's college prides themselves on the same scholastic standards as the leading men's colleges. If the truth were known their standards would be found to be even higher. The pressure for admission is so great that they insist rigidly upon entrance requirements and abhor the “exceptions” allowed by men's colleges. Nor have they any mercy on the freshmen who fall behind along the way. These admit more students than they can really care for with the expectation of dropping the surplus after the mid-year tests.

Many girls would have done better never to have tried college. She lost the joy of life soon after entering because her college career is an unending struggle against failure which may easily undermine her health. Many girls who try college are naturally unfitted to stand the strain. Instead of developing strength of character and strength of mind by meeting and overcoming obstacles as their fond parents expect, they develop the “inferiority complex” lose their self-confidence and much of their self-respect. Fortunately not many commit suicide, but the number who are unhappy in college is much larger than is generally supposed. Brooklyn Eagle.

A THOUGHT

LITTLE RED RIDING HOOD

THE WINDS OF DEATH

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Copyright, 1922, by E. Phillips Oppenheim. Arrgt. NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Vendetta begins between MICHAEL SAYERS, noted criminal, and SIR NORMAN GREYES, once of Scotland Yard, when Sayers' beautiful housemaid, JANET, saves him from S. Norman by shooting dead an officer out to arrest him. Janet becomes Sayers' wife and able accomplice. In many exploits Michael escapes arrest by taking desperate chances. While Sir Norman is living at his country house, Greyes Manor, he is shot at from ambush and narrowly escapes death. After a series of suspicious “accidents,” Greyes is convinced that his enemy, Sayers, is again in England. The police appeal to Sir Norman to help run to catch his arch enemy, whom they believe is working at the head of a dangerous gang.

Sir Norman Continues

“Personally,” was the confident reply, “I don't think there is the slightest doubt but that he is the man who has passed at different times as Thomas Tugley, James Stanfield, and originally Michael Sayers. He has vanished from the face of the earth, so far as New York police have ascertained; but they obtained possession of an uncompleted letter which he must have been typing at the time of the raid. The first page he probably destroyed, but I have a copy.”

“Rimington withdrew from his pocketbook a halfsheet of paper and passed it to me. I read it slowly, word by word: ‘Things here have come to their natural end. The last fortnight has been productive, but there is danger in any further preservation of our energies. There is only one man who stands in the way of my return to London. You know well of whom I speak. I wait day by day for your news of him, and hope to hear of no more blunders. See that the woman you know of, too, is carefully watched. She may be as loyal as she seems, but there are moments when I have my doubts. If N. G. can be disposed of—’

“Interesting,” I remarked, “very. To whom was the letter addressed?”

“To a firm of leather-brokers in Berninsey,” Rimington replied, “and it was written on the notepaper of a firm of hide-brokers in New York.”

“The letter is from our friend, right enough,” I decided. “There have been two attempts upon my life within the last two days, and I have just sent away a secretary who was keeping a careful note of my comings.”

We talked for an hour or more, and arrived without difficulty at a mutual understanding. Rimington undertook to send a good man down from Scotland Yard to make inquiries in the neighborhood, and he promised also to trace my late secretary's antecedents through the office from which she had come. In the meantime he begged me to return to London with him. The suggestion was not at first altogether attractive to me.

“Greyes,” he said earnestly, “listen to me: You can play golf round London, and get on with your book. You are far safer there than you would be in an unprotected neighborhood like this. But apart from that altogether, we want you up there. This wave of crime in New York has ceased. Paris, too, is quieter. The Chief is profoundly impressed with the belief that it is because operations are being transferred to London.”

“When do you want me to come?” I asked.

I had told Rimington of all the bad things which had happened to me down at Greyes Manor, but I had not spoken of that curious sense of impending evil which had clouded my days, and the presence of which had been so remarkably verified. We were scarcely crossing the first stretch of Canoe, however, when the memory of it came back to me, and with the memory an overpowering return of the feeling itself. I filled a pipe, stretched myself out in a corner of the car, and set myself to fight this grim agony of fear.

It was no easy matter, however. All through the night I was haunted with fancies. The gorge-bushes on the moors seemed like crouching men, the whistle from a distant railway train a warning of impending danger. In a small village before we arrived at Tunton, a man stood in the open doorway of his house, looking out at the night. He scanned us as we passed, and turned away. Through the uncurtained window of his sitting room I saw a telephone on his table.

At Wiveliscombe, a man with a motorcycle stood silent as we passed. He leaned forward as though to see the number of our car. In ten minutes he moved past us, his powerful engine making the night hideous.

“Are you gentlemen going through to London?” he inquired.

“We are,” I told him. “What can we do for you?”

The words had scarcely left my lips when I knew that we were in a trap. I realized it just in time to save my life. I struck with all my force at the ugly little black revolver which was thrust almost into my face. There was a report, a sharp pain at the top of my shoulder, and the revolver itself slipped from the man's crushed fingers. I was within an ace of having him by the throat, but he just eluded me. The touring car was now passing us slowly, and he leaped into it, leaving his helmet lying in the road. A third man, who seemed to rise up from underneath our car, tore along and jumped in.

“Everett True”

behind, and they shot forward, tramping at an almost astonishing pace. Rimington shouted to the world at large through the tube with the idea of pursuing them. We started for the ward with a series of horrible bumps, and came almost immediately to a standstill. I sprang out. Both our back tires had been stabbed through with some sharp instrument in the distance, the other car had rounded the corner, and with screaming siren, was racing away from London.

Janet Takes Up the Story
 It was toward the middle of October when I heard from my husband for the first time in many months. For a long time my luck had been atrocious. I lost the greater part of the money paid me for the recovery of Mrs. Trampston-Smith's diamonds, by an investment in a small millinery business which I discovered, too late, to be already moribund. I had lost post after post for the same maddening reason. My looks had suffered through privation, and my shabby clothes were unbecomingly enough, but if I had been Helen of Troy, herself I could scarcely have evoked more proposals of the sort which must bring to an end ordinary relations between employer and employee. My good resolution began to weaken. I had almost made up my mind to appeal for help in quarters which would necessarily have meant the end of my more or less honest life, when one morning a young man who looked like a bank clerk was ushered shamelessly by my landlady into my bed-sitting room. I was folding up a coat which I was going to take to the pawnbroker. I was not in a very pleasant frame of mind, and I was furious with my landlady.

“My visit is one of business, madam,” he answered. “Are you Mrs. Janet Stanfield?”

“I am generally known by that name,” I replied.

He opened his pocketbook and counted out two hundred pounds in bank notes upon the table. I watched him spellbound.

“With the compliments of the bank manager,” he said as he took up his hat and turned away.

It was gone before I could get out so much as another word. I took up the notes greedily, its best to live without my husband's help ever since certain news as to his doings in America had reached me. For some reason which I did not myself altogether understand, I had, I thought, cut myself off from any association with him and his friends.

Yes, I installed in a flat in Albemarle Street wearing clothes which were in keeping with my surroundings, and with an evening dress, and cloak in reserve. My neck and throat and fingers were bare, for I had seen nothing of my jewelry since an ill-omened adventure in Paris.

Under the California primary law a man can run for office on as many tickets as he wishes, if he gets the nominations.

For example, in a former campaign the man I was opposing was on the Socialist, Democratic, Prohibition, Social-Labor and Progressive tickets.

So, in fighting him, I often used this story:

An old dorky had a pet chameleon which he used to exhibit to his friends and boast about it.

But one day he appeared without it.

“Yassah,” he explained, “he died. ‘I was showing’ him to a man down in the general store, an’ he brung out a piece of blue cloth an’ the chameleon tu’ns blue, an’ I puts him on a piece of yellor cloth an’ he tu’ns yellor, an’ on green cloth an’ he tu’ns green, an’ on red cloth an’ he tu’ns red.”

“All-over what?” asked Nick. “Fish, when they are occupied,” replied the pink gelatin fish. “Patterns when they are empty. Flowers and leaves and trees and birds’ things.”

“Do!” said the fish. “But I’ll have to be going. Please help me up.”

U. S. RECLAMATION ENGINEERS. Phoenix, Ariz.

Here, where once a desert lay, desolate and bare, Now a glad green country smiles, opulent and fair;

Floods that thundered madly down, raging through the land, Now are held and leashed by Man, soothed and commanded.

So a miracle appears, Where the cactus ruled for half-a-million years, Over dusty trails forlorn, Now there's cotton, wheat and corn.

Thanks to U. S. Reclamation Engineers!

Here where lean coyotes howled, where mesquite had spread Over league on barren league, thirsty, bleak and dead,

There are farms and villages, churches, homes and schools, All because the engineers learned to use their tools.

So a miracle—a miracle appears, And the driest land upon the hemispheres blossoms as the rose, Growing everything that grows, Thanks to U. S. Reclamation Engineers!

Manna in the wilderness, water in the plain, That's what engineers have brought to this broad domain. Dam and ditch and deep canal where the waters run, They have wrought their magic under Arizona's sun.

So a miracle—a miracle appears, And the desert wind that withers up and sears, Has become a gentle breeze, Sighing gently through the trees, Thanks to U. S. Reclamation Engineers! BEYTON BRALEY. (Copyright, 1923, NEA Service, Inc.)

Letter from Paula Perier to Her Old Flame, John Alden Prescott, whose Engagement to Leslie Hamilton Has Just Been Announced.

MON CHERE JACQUES:
The papers tell me that very soon you are going to marry. Of course, when I read the notices all our old associations it brings up and I wonder—yes, Jacques, I really wonder—if you will ever be as happy with me as you were with me. We were blissfully happy, n'est pas?

You have never mentioned me to this Miss Hamilton, I expect, but I am sure that to forget me you will not be able nevertheless, and sometimes when things go wrong and wife understands not, don't you know that old saying Jacques, "My wife is a lovely woman, but she does not understand"—well, when wife does not understand, perhaps to someone you will come back and you may tell again to her that her greatest charm is her understanding thorough.

We quarreled so long ago. What was it about, Jacques? Silly it was, I know, and that you would come back immediately I was sure; but you did not, and too proud I was to ask you to return. And now some other girl into your life has come.

You will be happy I sincerely hope, if only in that monotonous way which all married people fall into who claim to be happy. Possibly it is not for human beings to dwell on the mountain tops of love; the air is too rarified.

But I am getting romantic; to be very sensible I had intended, and to tell you that a bundle of letters I have tied up carefully in one of my bureau drawers.

I wonder how you would like them for a wedding present? Very interesting reading they would make for your wife, Jacques! I read one of them this morning. It made me feel quite unhappy. I shed a few tears. And very well you know that there is nothing or no one that is worth a tear in this world! But to realize this you have to go through affairs like yours and mine, wonderful dreams dreaming, and to stern reality wake up as I did when of your coming marriage I read.

To this letter what will you say? Whatever it is Jacques, you cannot from the fact get away that once I to you was the only woman in the world. Hundreds of times you have told me that better than life itself you loved me, I am still always to you the same—PAULA.

Get ALL The Power from Your Engine

SLOW starting—stalling—any number of engine troubles—are due to improper lubrication. This is particularly true in winter.

If you are not using Polarine, you are not getting all the power your engine is capable of delivering—nor all the economy. Polarine will avoid undue strain on battery and on starter. It will avoid worn bearings and scored cylinders.

Polarine gets into action the moment the engine starts, because its viscosity is scientifically correct—its body stable, without being heavy. Its consistency, even in the coldest weather, is such that it spreads quickly, forming a perfect film between all the moving metal surfaces.

Polarine is scientifically adapted to develop the full efficiency of your engine. The grade of Polarine specified in the chart is specified by our Board of Lubricating Engineers, who know the design and construction of your car.

MARKET NEWS

WHEAT AGAIN GOES UPWARD ON TRADE MART

Liverpool Strength Is Reflected in Trading on This Side of Water

Chicago, Mar. 17.—European demand for wheat continued today and values here started upgrade during the early dealings. Strength in Liverpool also was reflected on this side of the Atlantic. At the start there was a fairly liberal trade with foreigners who bought May, July and September partly on direct cables. May soon touched $1.21 1/2, the highest price since the middle of February. Some scattered commission house buying shortly became much in evidence, but the bulge soon brought out increased pressure which resulted in a reaction to around yesterday's finish. After opening unchanged to 1/2 cent higher with May $1.21 1/2 to $1.21 3/4 and July $1.16 the market steadied a little, then underwent a slight setback.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK.
Chicago, Mar. 17.—Hog receipts, 15,000. Slow. Unevenly, 10 to 25 cents lower. Close dull. Estimated hold-over, 6,000.
Cattle receipts, 1,300. Compared with a weak ago beef steers steady to 25 cents higher. Good to choice yearlings and handweights reflecting an advance. Extreme top long yearlings, $2.00 to $10. Beef cows and heifers largely 50 cents higher. Spots up more. Canners and cutters, stockers and feeders 25 cents higher. Bulls, 25 to 50 cents higher. Veal calves 50 to 75 cents up.

ST. PAUL LIVESTOCK.
St. Paul, Mar. 17.—Cattle receipts, 300. Compared with a week ago, common and medium beef steers 25 to 50 cents higher. Range, $5 to $8.25. Butcher cows and heifers, 25 to 50 cents higher. Range, $4 to $8. Canners and cutters strong to 25 cents higher. $2.50 to $3.75. Bologna bulls mostly 25 cents higher. Range, $4 to $4.75. Stockers and feeders, steady to strong, range $4 to $8. Calves receipts, none. Compared with a week ago, around 50 cents higher. Best lights today $5.25 to $9.25. Hog receipts, 1,400. Market steady to strong. Bulk, 150 pounds to 275 pounds, $8.10 to $8.25. Packing sows mostly, $6.75. Pigs scarce, a few sales at $8.
Sheep receipts, 100. Market steady. Few good lambs at $14. Heavy ewes, $6.50. Compared with a week ago, fat lambs, weak to 25 cents or more lower.

MINNEAPOLIS GRAIN.
Minneapolis, Mar. 17.—Wheat receipts, 178 cars, compared with 173 cars a year ago.
Cash No. 1 northern, $1.20 1/2 to $1.20 3/4; May, $1.21 1/2; July, $1.21 1/2; No. 1 dark northern, $1.26 1/2 to $1.26 3/4; No. 2 dark northern, $1.18 1/2 to $1.19 1/4.
Corn No. 3 yellow, 87 1/2 to 88 1/2 cents.

SHIP HORSES EAST.
Wilton, N. D., Mar. 16.—Col. J. M. Thompson, the well known auctioneer of the Missouri slope expects to leave the last of the month with a carload of horses for the eastern market. Already two shipments have been made this spring, going as far east as Connecticut. The horses were from the vicinity of Wing and McKenzie. Col. Thompson says there is a brisk demand for good horses in the east.

NEWSPAPERARCH

COMMISSION ADOPTS A NEW UTILITY RULE

Will Value Utility Plants on Cost of Reproduction Theory, Decision

IS A MARKED CHANGE

Held Necessary Under Decision of U. S. Circuit Court.
Chairman Says

The state railroad commission has abandoned the method of valuing public utilities on the original cost basis for rate-making purposes and instead has adopted the basis of reproduction cost of the plant less depreciation. Chairman Frank Milholland said today.

The new method, a radical departure from the previous holdings of the commission, was applied for the first time in deciding the case of the Western Electric Company of Jamestown. Comparative valuations made by engineers of the railroad commission usually have shown the cost of reproduction method valuations to be higher than the original cost method.

The change of policy, Mr. Milholland declared, was made necessary by the decision in the Bismarck Water Company case by Judge Wilbur Booth of federal district court.

"A careful study of decisions of the courts and further consideration of utility law leads us to believe that it is the method we must adopt," Mr. Milholland said, adding that the rule was adopted reluctantly.

Changed Times

In its decision in the Jamestown case, after quoting from the North Dakota utility law on which the commission has in the past based its original cost valuations, the railroad commission says:

"Paragraph G above quoted contemplates that the commission shall find the reproduction cost new value by adopting average unit prices over a sufficient period of years to secure normal results. It is a matter of common knowledge that prices of materials have greatly increased since the world war and that to date there is no indication that prices will ever return to the pre-war level. There has probably never been a period when it was so difficult to determine, with any degree of accuracy, what the prices of materials, entering into the construction of a utility will cost as of a future date.

"Prices continue to fluctuate and though several years have elapsed since the close of the war neither labor nor materials have declined to anything like pre-war prices. (We doubt if they ever will.) Until a permanent level has been reached, we cannot attempt to find the so-called 'normal results.' Neither can we prophesy as to the range of prices in the future. We must apply reasonable judgment to all the facts before us and find a value, which in our judgment, represents the fair value of the property used and useful as of the time when the inquiry is made regarding rates.

FOOLS MEDICS

Evelyn Lyons, Escanaba, Mich., shown here, is fooling physicians because, say they, she's alive when she ought to be dead. Elizabeth had a temperature of 115 degrees and a pulse beat of 170, but the hoax was exposed when physicians observed the use of hot water bag to boost temperature.

By fair value is meant fair both to the utility and to the consumer.

In its decision in the Jamestown case the commission also established a rule that franchise value will not be allowed in fixing the value of a utility for rate-making purposes. The Jamestown utility claimed a valuation of $90,000 as franchise value. In arriving at this, it figured that under a special contract with the city of Jamestown made when the franchise was granted, it had furnished the city with electric power to pump water at an accumulated loss of $90,000 over cost. The commission held that its analysis of the Jamestown utility's earnings showed it had always earned a fair return, and that the money lost through the special contract with the city itself was paid by the consumers in their rates.

Contract Discriminates

In fixing new rates for the Western Electric Company the commission held the special contract was discriminatory, but that since the legislature has restricted the power of the city to increase its budget the special rate would be continued in effect for one year, but that the city should prepare to answer why the discrimination should not be removed after that time. The commission also allowed the utility to add $6,000 to its operating expenses for the money said to be lost through the favorable contract for the city of Jamestown.

The Western Electric Company asked for a valuation of $607,853.00. The valuation fixed by the commission was $379,282.00. The rates to be charged by the company were reduced, effective April 1.

NEWSPAPER 'BRIBE' CASE IS APPEALED

Supreme Court Asked to Pass on Official Paper
Scrap of Ransom Co.

The Ransom County Farmers Press has carried to the supreme court its contention that the Lisbon Free Press violated the corrupt practices act in the last election for official newspaper by promising to send every voter a copy of the official publication of the delinquent tax list.

The appeal on behalf of the Ransom County Farmers Press and Chas. G. Bangert says that the promise of the Free Press to put a copy of the paper containing the delinquent tax list before the voters "constituted the holding out of a prize, reward or promise and something of value to the voters of Ransom county as a condition and consideration for their votes" and that it "constitutes a violation of the corrupt practice act of the state of North Dakota."

The election was invalidated and annulled by such action, it is contended. Since the Ransom County Farmers Press, publisher of the Enderlin Independent, held the official paper previous to the last November election, the supreme court is asked to declare the election null and void and thus restore the Enderlin Independent as official paper.

Judge Allen decided against the contention of the appellant in district court.

Another newspaper case before the high court came from Morton county yesterday, being appealed by the board of city commissioners of Mandan. The Mandan News, as official paper, had published a sewer special assessment roll and made a charge of $862.27. The city contended the proper charge was $465.30. A jury found for the city but Judge Berry directed judgment for $862.27 notwithstanding the verdict. The appeal, however, is from Judge Leach on a special proceeding in mandamus.

RULES DRAWN TO REGULATE MOTOR LINES

State Railroad Commission Prepares to Act Under Law of Recent Legislature

RECEIVE APPLICATIONS

Will be Ready to Act on Applications for Motor Line Licenses Soon

With rules drawn to govern the operation of motor vehicle inter-city transportation under provisions of the emergency law of the 1923 legislature, the state railroad commission expects to take action upon applications for certificates for maintaining regular transportation service by the first of April. Commissioner Fay Harding, who drafted the rules, said today. The commission has been informed that within the near future there will be many applications for certificates of operation.

Rules and regulations of Washington, California and Utah were used by the railroad commission in drafting the rules of the new phase of its regulatory business, it was said by Mr. Harding. The commission has tentatively adopted a provision enlarging upon the maximum and minimum liability insurance required under the law.

Liability Bond Rule

Under the proposed rule, a liability bond to guarantee a resumption of up to $5,000 for personal injury to any passenger of an inter-city automobile line would be required, the law providing a maximum recovery of $10,000 for all persons injured on vehicles carrying twelve passengers or less. On vehicles carrying from 13 to 20 passengers $15,000 of liability insurance would be required; on vehicles carrying 21 or more passengers $20,000 liability insurance. In addition liability insurance to cover up to $1,000 damage to property of any person other than the insured would be required.

Among the rules definitely adopted is one requiring every motor vehicle engaged in the transportation of passengers to stop not less than 20 nor more than 50 feet from a railroad crossing, and after making the stop the driver ascertain that no railroad train is approaching. This provision, it was stated, is contained in the California law. It had been urged by the railroad commission for incorporation in law by the legislature.

Must Keep to Schedule

Each vehicle for which certificate is obtained must have a sign 2 1/2 inches in height showing the route of transportation, non-skid chains must be provided in rainy weather or on slippery roads; time tables must be maintained showing the schedule and time of arrival and departure; any interruptions of regular service likely to continue 24 hours must be reported to the railroad commission; and a style of emblem will be adopted by the railroad commission to be placed on the vehicles.

The rules also provide that no company shall discontinue any service without ten days notice to the commission and its permission, and provides that the commission may order alterations in the schedules on its own motion or that of person or persons affected.

ROBERTS MURDER TRIAL IS SENT TO GRAND FORKS

Lakota, N. D., March 17.—George Roberts, alleged to have confessed to slaying Mrs. F. W. Feldhusen of Lakota, has been granted a change of venue by Judge C. M. Cooley and will be tried in Grand Forks. Application for the transfer was made at the opening of the Nelson county court term and was granted by Judge Cooley. The time of the trial has not yet been set. Bail was placed at $20,000 in default of which Roberts will be held in the Grand Forks county jail.

The shooting of Mrs. Feldhusen, a widow, occurred in Lakota on Feb. 5. Roberts immediately went to the police station and surrendered himself to the authorities, claiming the shooting was accidental.
